

Despite Development, Other Pressures, Century Farm Thrives

TELFORD (Montgomery Co.) — W. Blaine Souder shrugs when he thinks about the farmers who are leaving the business. Within the past year, about three or four nearby dairy farms "gave up this winter," he said, pointing around him. "The one down here did, the one out there did, and the other one . . . dairy farmers just sold out." He said the farmers are "just cropping now," and no one stands in line to take over the farms once they're gone.

The same situation faces the Souders. Who will assume the operation of the business when they are done?

This Franconia Township farmer purchased 54 acres of a farm mostly devoted to feeder hogs

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "The Farm and Home Foundation winners this year are all a terrific bunch of students — very impressive," said Jay Irwin, former Lancaster Extension director.

The 14 scholarship winners were honored Tuesday night at a ceremony held at the Farm and Home Center. Recipients of the scholarships must use the money to pursue studies in agriculture or home economics. Selection is based on extracurricular activities, leadership skills, financial need, and scholastic achievement.

The Farm and Home Foundation trust fund was established by the late Elmer Esbenschade 27 years ago.

Scholarship winners include the following:

J. Douglas Metzler, who said he lives on a "McDonald farm," is the son of Daniel and Ethel Metzler of Pequea. The Penn Manor High School senior plans to pursue a STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — More than 1,500 FFA members are expected in State College for the annual Pennsylvania FFA Convention to be held here June 11, 12, and 13.

During the three-day convention, FFA members from across the state will gather to conduct State FFA Association business and honor fellow members for their outstanding achievements.

Members attending the convention will spend the bulk of their time competing in more than 30 contests ranging from dairy judging to aquatic resources.

The guest speaker at this year's convention will be Patrick T. Grady, a nationally recognized motivational speaker from North Carolina, and Matthew Lohr, National FFA eastern vice president.

Grady will be at the podium twice during the three-day event,

Next Issue Is Special

Lancaster Farming's annual dairy issue will come your way next week with special story features and valuable messages from our advertisers.

Farm interviews include several York County dairymen's views on the economy and the milk price squeeze. And we take a look inside the operation of Hershey Farms in Dauphin County. The DHIA Spring Newsletter will be included, as well as dairy recipes that have come to us in response to the drawing for model cows.

Experts write on forage and dairy herd management. And our livestock, grain, and auction reports, along with regular columns and features, will be in place. Watch for next week's special tribute to the dairy farmers and agri-businesses who help provide the consumer with wholesome dairy products.

Wolff Sworn In For Second Term

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — With members of his family, Gov. Robert P. Casey and employees of the Department of Agriculture looking on, Boyd E. Wolff Wednesday took the oath of office to serve his second term as Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture.

Wolff was sworn in by the Honorable James R. Kelley, judge of the commonwealth court.

Under Wolff's leadership, the department of Agriculture established a voter-approved $100 million farmland preservation program. To date, 28 counties have created farmland preservation boards, and the state board has approved easement purchases on 36 farms totaling 3,657 acres.

Over 1.36 million acres of National Egg Market

May 22, 1991

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was mostly steady to instances fully steady. Demand remained mostly moderate in a wide range, best where featured, and where improvement was noted for the Memorial Day weekend. Supplies were adequate except jumbo and extra-large were often short and sought. Offerings to breakers were generally adequate, and some plants planned reduced holiday schedules. Live hen offerings were at least adequate for the unaggressive demand, and the undertone was steady to weak, mostly barely steady.

Eastern PA & NJ

Prices trended lower compared to prior week on both classes of fowl. Offerings were at least adequate to fill next week's reduced holiday schedules to desired capacity. Demand only fair at best as buyers purchase for immediate needs. Undertone barely steady to weak.

N.E. Chicken Parts

May 22, 1991

Trucklot buying interest was light to fair at best and centered mainly on limited supplies of yellow whole breasts. Supplies of white were fully adequate. Boneless skinless breasts were in fairly good balance at unchanged prices. Leg items were more available than earlier and several dealers noted heavy floor stocks and little interest in additional offerings, particularly at current asking prices. Wings were also less difficult to locate and at least adequate. Giblets were adequate to fully adequate.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

MAY 27-JUNE 2, 1991

Full Flower Moon, May 28.

May 27, 1937, the Golden Gate Bridge is opened in San Francisco Bay with a week-long celebration. May 28, 1767, local papers report that French Huguenot refugees are settling in South Carolina and raising silkworms. May 31, 1790, Congress passes a national copyright law thanks to lobbying by Noah Webster. Look for the old so as to learn the new. Ask the Old Farmer: Why do people say someone talks a 'blue streak'? Why not a red streak? J. T. La. The word blue is very ancient and the 'blue streak' arose from two things: the dread of flame, which was regarded as a portent of doom and the 'blue shot' in ancient archery, which was close to the center of the target.

Home Hints: Paint the screw of a drawer knob with fingernail polish before driving it and the screw will hold tightly - no more wobbly knobs!

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England. Rain and more rain, and quite cool as well, to end the month of May. June begins warm and sunny, though the average this month is 65° F, 3° below normal. Greater New York-New Jersey: The week starts out seasonable and sunny, with a few showers, then changes to rainy and cool. The weekend is partly cloudy and warm. Middle Atlantic Coastal: A sunny, warm start, with just a few showers, changes to heavy rain and cooler. Cloudy with intermittent heavy rain on the weekend. Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Several days of clear, hot weather gives way to rain, heavy in central sections, and milder temperatures. June begins rainy and mild.

ATTENTION: Type 41 Tobacco Growers

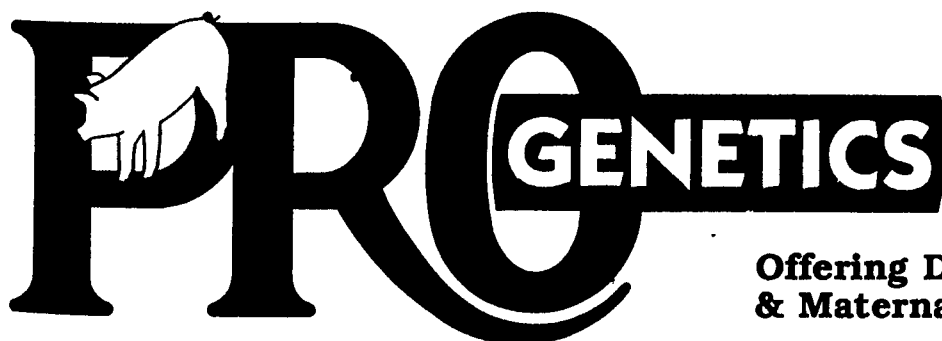

Lancaster Leaf has a responsibility to inform you of conditions that may affect your decision to grow Type 41 tobacco. At this time, demand looks strong.

It has been printed that there is an excess of Type 41 tobacco this year. Lancaster Leaf would like to make it clear that much of that tobacco was given a fair bid on the farm in our normal buying season. As growers, you need to know that we will continue to buy tobacco on the farm.

Again, we believe demand for Type 41 will be strong in 1991.

OPINION

Discard Pesticide Containers Properly

Farmers and ranchers are often concerned about disposing of potentially hazardous ag chemicals and their containers.

Most ordinary trash in the U.S. is disposed of in sanitary landfills. However, these sites are generally prohibited from accepting waste classified as hazardous by the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). Since contaminated ag chemical containers and waste chemicals often fall into this category, farmers often have difficulty disposing of these properly.

According to the Alliance For A Clean Rural Environment (ACRE), the first part of the solution is to rinse the chemical containers properly. Rinsed containers aren't hazardous. Laboratory tests have shown that proper rinsing results in essentially harmless, nearly residue free containers, regardless of which ag chemical they originally contained.

Probably the fastest, most efficient and convenient container rinse method is pressure rinsing. Special hose-end attachments are available which easily puncture plastic and metal containers, producing a forceful spray inside the empty container. By holding the container over the opening to the spray rig or holding tank while rinsing, rinse water can be captured as it drains from the container spout.

Triple rinsing can be as effective as pressure rinsing, although it is more time consuming and labor intensive.

Rinsed according to label directions, ag chemical containers are classified as ordinary solid waste. Be aware, however, that some waste disposal operators will still turn away rinsed containers, even if they have adequate landfill capacity.

States also have jurisdiction over burning and burying containers on private property. While these disposal methods don't violate federal laws, the states frequently apply different rules. For example, open burning and burial of containers is outlawed in some states.

Collection and recycling programs are being organized in a number of states as pilot programs. But the success of any disposal or recycling program hinges on the guarantee that only properly rinsed containers will be brought in by farmers. Without this guarantee, landfill operators and recyclers, wary of handling hazardous waste, won't accept the containers. If you have the opportunity to participate in a recycling program, be sure to rinse all containers properly.

To Practice Biosecurity

Animal diseases are one of the major problems facing poultry and livestock producers. As we increase animal units per farm, the chance for disease outbreaks also increase. With the recent discovery of a new avian influenza virus as outlined in last week's Poultry Pointers by Dr. David Kradel, reminds us of the need for effective biosecurity programs.

Biosecurity is a defensive plan to keep disease organisms away from animals. An effective biosecurity plan includes: 1. Posting signs, locking buildings, and controlling visitors. 2. Insisting all people entering animal housing wear clean coveralls, boots and hats. 3. Allow only clean and disinfected equipment and supplies on the farm and 4. Avoid contact with other animals. By using biosecurity we will minimize the chances diseases may spread from one farm to another.

To Review Insurance Coverage

The past several months have seen several farm disasters. These include fires, wind damage, and flooding. Most of these farms have been able to replace lost buildings and equipment due to adequate insurance. Is your insurance adequate to cover an unexpected loss from a fire, tornado or flood? Now would be a good time to set up an appointment with your insurance agent to review your property insurance.

At the same time you might also want to review your health and life insurance coverage. Insurance is a

To Have A Tetanus Shot

Tetanus (lock jaw) is an infectious disease caused by a toxin produced by bacteria. The tetanus toxin affects the central nervous system and muscles. The disease is usually fatal. The bacteria causing tetanus is found everywhere, especially around animals and in the soil. They often invade the body through a cut or open wound. Farmers and their families are at higher risk to tetanus since they receive many cuts in the out doors. If you cannot remember when you had your last tetanus shot, chances are real good you will need one. Contact your local doctor and schedule a time to have all your family receive their tetanus shots.

ARE YOU SHORT-CHANGED?
May 26, 1991

Background Scripture: 2

Corinthians 8-9.

Devotional Reading:

Hebrews 13:1-8,15,16.

We tend to think that being short-changed is something that happens to us. But in some things we are the ones who short-change ourselves.

This is implicit in 2 Corinthians. Although Paul wants the church there to freely contribute to the offering for the relief of the Jerusalem church, he doesn't hesitate to use some not-too-subtle persuasion. We don't know exactly why Paul has to remind the Corinthians of their commitment to the relief offering. Perhaps when Paul and the Corinthians were estranged they held back on their offerings. Those Macedonians!

Notice how he holds up the Macedonians for comparison. Perhaps there was a little rivalry between the Macedonians and the Corinthians. Or maybe Paul is simply using the Macedonians as an object lesson. At any rate, he is careful to point out that, although in "extreme poverty," they gave to the collection with a "wealth of liberality on their part" (8:2). Paul says: "For they gave according to their means . . . and beyond their means, of their own free will, begging us earnestly for the favor of taking part in the relief of the saints" in Jerusalem (8:3). What lay behind this magnanimous gift by the Macedonians? "First they gave themselves to the Lord" and that is the true basis of Christian giving.

If we have problems in fulfilling our commitments, it is not a money problem or a service problem; the problem is that we have not first given ourselves to God. When we do that, giving money and help to others is not a problem. That's what Jesus said: "For where your treasure is, there will be your heart also" (Luke 12:34). The reverse is also true: your treasure will be where your heart is.

Paul also uses another strategy to motivate the tardy Corinthians: "Now as you excel in everything — in faith, in utterance, in knowledge, in earnestness, and in your love for us — see that you also excel in this gracious work also" (8:7). Apparently the Corinthians prided themselves on their love, for Paul says, "I say this not as a command, but to prove by the earnestness of others that your love also is genuine" (8:8). This is how Christ proved his love, "that though he was rich, yet for your sake he became poor. . . ." If our love is not demonstrated in giving, then, Paul suggests, it is not love. Not Ready Yet?

Another appeal is made to the pride of the Corinthians. Paul is sending someone to collect from the congregation "so that our boasting about you may not prove vain in this case, so that you may be ready, as I said you would be; lest if some Macedonians come with me and find that you are not ready, we will be humiliated — to say nothing of you — for being so confident" (9:3,4). Paul is one heck of a motivator!

Finally, Paul comes to the most important motive of all: "The point is this: he who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully" (9:6). The person who is "not ready" to give — and the ungenerous are never "ready" — actually cheats him or herself. Those who give always have enough, for "God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that you may always have enough of everything and may provide in abundance for every good work" (9:8).

Only Farm Credit Has Loan Officers Who Were Trained In The Field.

While you were growing up on the farm going to 4-H, FFA, maybe even AG school, do you know what your Farm Credit loan officer was doing?

Same thing.

Not many bankers can say that.

True, they can make loans nine ways to Sunday. But, now your Farm Credit loan officer can, too. Over the last few years our people have gone through extensive training at making every kind of farm loan imaginable. Now a Farm Credit loan officer can give you the lowdown on rates, options and creative financing as well as any city banker can.

And around here, our Farm Credit loan officers have the power of approval that's equal to most bank presidents.

So the next time you need to get a farm loan, think about this for just a moment.

Then let one of our Farm Credit loan officers prove to you what we've been saying all along.

That bankers can't be farmers. But farmers can be bankers.

MIST SPRAYER ADVANTAGES

1. ROTARY ATOMIZATION distributes an even size droplet spectrum that greatly improves penetration and coverage.
2. LOW FIRST COST compared with conventional sprayers with the same acreage capabilities.
3. COST LESS TO OPERATE. 50-90% savings on diluent (water or oil). Water swaths at higher speeds with less tank fillings. Save a bundle on fuel.

4. SAVE ON COSTLY CHEMICAL. More complete coverage with 25-50% less chemical compared with conventional dilute solution sprayers.
5. LOW MAINTENANCE. Simple design with few moving parts means little upkeep. No down time due to repairs or plugged nozzles.
6. MORE EFFECTIVE CONTROL as a result of fine particle efficiency through distribution of chemical.
7. COMPACT UNIT — use of smaller tractors and no booms to contend with.

Baltimore Farm Credit Earns $6.2 Million

BALTIMORE, Md. — The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore and its 17 affiliated Agricultural Credit Associations reported combined net income of $6.2 million for the 1st quarter of 1991, a 24 percent or $1.2 million increase over the same quarter of 1990, according to financial reports released recently.

Loan volume during the quarter rose to $3.14 billion for the Mid-Atlantic region's largest agricultural lenders, an increase of $40 million or 1.3 percent above December 31, 1990 and up almost 8 percent or $220 million from the same period last year. Bank officials noted that the $3.14 billion in outstanding loans was a record high with the increased lending activity during the quarter marking 14 consecutive quarters of loan volume growth.

"The agricultural economy in the region has remained strong and farmers are fairly confident, despite some continued weakness in other industries," said Gene L. Swackhamer, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore. "We are seeing a willingness to commit to long-term fixed rate loans for real estate purchases or refinancing."

"The credit quality of Farm Credit's loan portfolio has not changed significantly from year-end," he said. "However, we may start to see some minor effect later this year if the current economic recession continues and begins affecting borrowers' repayment capacity, particularly for those relying on sources of off-farm income from recession impacted industries for loan payments."

Net interest income for the quarter was $22.4 million, an increase of $3.3 million or 17.3 percent above the same quarter last year. Reports indicate the increase in net interest income was because of higher levels of earning assets and lower funding costs.

Foraging Around

Forage Brassicas - High Quality Supplemental Pasture

During the past several years Brassica crops (rape, kale, turnips and swedes) have gained in popularity as supplemental summer grazing crops especially for sheep and beef, but also in some cases for dairy cows. And newer varieties, particularly of rape and turnips, make these crops even more promising.

Rape and kale are leafy Brassicas, while turnips and swedes are root crops with all parts (leaves, stems and roots) utilized by the grazing animals. Rape and turnips reach their maximum yields (up to 4 tons dry matter/acre) between 90 and 120 days after planting. Thus, these crops sown right now would be ready for grazing or chopping by mid August, or sooner, and would be available for a second grazing in late fall. And, unlike perennial forages, the quality of brassicas doesn't seem to decline with age.

Speaking of quality, the brassicas are high in protein and high in digestibility. They're also very succulent and extremely low in fiber. Because of their low fiber content, brassicas should make up no more than about two-thirds of the daily livestock diet. That's why I've stressed that they are supplemental pasture or green chop crops.

Newer Varieties Show Promise

Numerous varieties of the various brassicas have been tested in Pennsylvania, and have performed satisfactorily. Of the newer varieties of rape, Sparta has proven to be high yielding and highly digestible and recovers rapidly after grazing or chopping. It also has good cold tolerance and club root resistance.

Of the newer turnip varieties a hybrid Forage Star has looked very promising. In addition to good forage production, it has a higher top to root ratio than most other turnip varieties and also has superior frost hardiness.

There are, of course, several other varieties that have performed satisfactorily under our climatic conditions.

Establishment and Management

Brassicas grow best in moderate to well drained soils and should not be grown on poorly drained sites. They are fairly acid tolerant but grow best when the pH is 6.0 or above. As with other crops, a soil test is your best guide to a sound fertility program. However, in the absence of a soil test, apply about 75 pounds of nitrogen per acre along with 60 pounds each of P_2O_5 and K_2O . Brassicas require nitrogen and it should be applied at the time of seeding.

Brassica crops can be seeded on a prepared seedbed. But seeds are small and seeding depth is critical. Seeding rates for rape seeded at this time are 4 pounds per acre. For turnips 2 pounds per acre. A good, firm seedbed as well as properly calibrated drills or seeders, are a must.

Excellent stands of Brassicas have consistently been gotten with no-till seedings either in sod or stubble with herbicides such as Gromoxone or Roundup to suppress existing vegetation, a sound lime and fertility program, and the use of precision no-till drills to do the seeding.

Strip grazing where forage is rationed daily or every two days is the most efficient means of grazing brassicas. Rape and turnips both have regrowth capability if animals are not left on pasture too long. Rape, for example, should not be grazed closer than about 6 inches. While for turnips, don't allow animals to consume the growing point at the top of the turnip root. When rotational or strip grazing is practiced, two or more grazings are possible if rainfall is adequate.

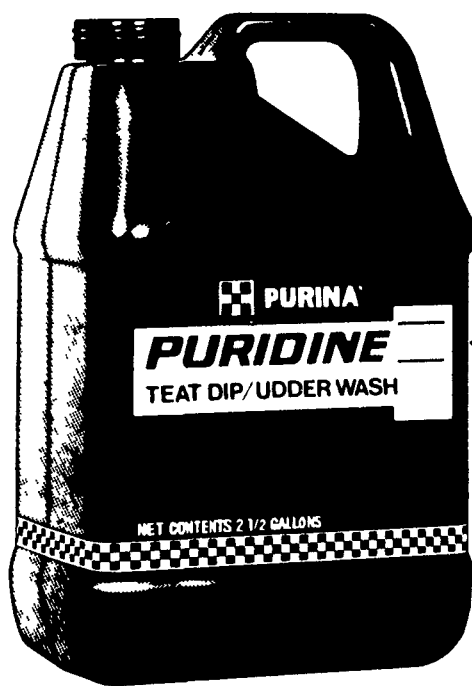

Brassicas, like other annual or biennial forages, won't replace your perennial cool season pasture grasses and legumes. But there's plenty of evidence to suggest that for many livestock producers they can supplement your other pasture crops and supply high quality feed in August, late fall and early winter when other pastures are short or not available.

Pa DHIA Administration Changes

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association is pleased to announce that Ronald T. Coder, of State College, now holds the position of manager of finance and human resources.

In this position, Ron is responsible for all finance and personnel operations for the 6,000-member organization.

For the past three years, Ron has served as the accounting associate with James Garrity, who is also assuming a new role with Pa. DHIA.

Ron is a 1951 graduate of Penn State and received an MBA degree from George Washington University in 1972. After a 23-year career as an Air Force pilot, he worked for a year in the accounts receivable and credit department at Herbert R. Imbt Inc., of State College, then became director of renovation, purchasing and inspections for the Federated Home and Mortgage Company of State College.

He spent four years as the executive director of the Second Mile, an organization for neglected youth. He is also interim treasurer for the State College Presbyterian Church.

Ron and his family are solid Penn State fans. Ron was a member of Penn State's National Championship Soccer Team in 1950 and 1951, and was a member of the 1956 Olympic Soccer Team. All four of his sons played Penn State football and his oldest son played professional football for 10 years.

He and his wife, Hope, reside in Boalsburg. They enjoy computers, gardening and Penn State athletics.

Pa DHIA Staff Changes

James P. Garrity has assumed a new and temporary position as the transition director for Re-organization.

In this position, Jim is responsible for all aspects of the merger of local DHIA associations throughout Pennsylvania into a single, statewide DHIA by Oct. 1, 1992.

Jim has been performing this task, while working as director of finance and personnel. His associate, Ron Coder, is to assume those duties, allowing Jim to direct his attention to re-organization.

Jim is also heading up the development and implementation of a new computer-based member billing, employee payroll, and employee benefits system.

Prior to joining the Pa. DHIA staff, Jim had spent over 20 years in the finance and personnel administration field with such companies as Pond Hill Ltd., Toyad, Westinghouse, Warner-Lambert, and the Surgitool Division of Baxter/Travenol.

Jim, who assumed the new position on May 1, is married and has two grown daughters. He and his wife enjoy spending time at their home near Pennsylvania Furnace.

Other Staffing Changes

With staffing changes within the Pa. DHIA including Dean Amick assuming the role of director of field operations, and Ron Coder taking the role of manager of finance and human resources, there have been other in-house assignments as job responsibilities shifted.

Amy Nyman, executive secretary, is now a finance clerk under Ron Coder. Norma Etters, formerly inventory coordinator, is now the supervisor of support operations, reporting to Dean Amick. Lisa Yearick has moved from being inventory assistant to the coordinator of the inventory department under Norma Etters.

Average Farm Feed Costs

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Pa. Jr. Holstein Judging Schools Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The 1991 Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association Judging Schools are in final planning stages.

All junior members, regardless of breed orientation, are invited to attend the school nearest to their home. 4-H and FFA members are also invited to attend one of the schools.

The two-day schools run from noon one day to noon the next. Eight to 12 classes are judged, each person in attendance has an opportunity to work one-on-one with an experienced judge on giving reasons. All the basics of judging cattle are covered by our school official.

The school officials this year are Richard Keene, Gilbertsvilles, N.Y., and Curtis Day, of Shippensburg. They are both well-known judges having worked national shows. They are excellent teachers. Both have spent a lot of time working with their respective county 4-H judging teams.

The Western School is to be held July 7 and July 8, with Blair County Holstein Club acting as host. Curtis Day is to be the official for that school.

The Eastern School is scheduled for July 10 and July 11 in Susquehanna County with Richard Keene serving as official.

The cost is $25 each for those staying overnight. That includes school costs, hotel room and an evening meal. For commuters, the cost is $15, which covers school costs and an evening meal.

This year, a second member of the same family attending the school receives a $5 discount.

To attend, fill out the entry form and return it by June 28 to: Pa. Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, 16801.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 19

EXCELLENT WEEK FOR FIELDWORK: Mid-summer like temperatures dominated the week's weather. Rainfall was very sparse over the western part of the state. There were two days with some scattered thundershowers over the eastern two-thirds. Respondents to our survey indicated that 6 days were suitable for field work. Activities for the week included repairing fence; hauling manure; spreading fertilizer and lime; cutting hay; maintaining machinery; spring plowing; planting crops; and caring for livestock.

SOIL MOISTURE: Across the commonwealth, topsoil was rated short by 19 percent of our respondents, adequate by 78 percent, and surplus by 3 percent. In the northern region, 33 percent rated it short, and 67 percent of our respondents rated it adequate. In the central region, 11 percent of our respondents rated soil moisture short, 84 percent rated it adequate, and 5 percent of our respondents rated it surplus. In the southern region, 19 percent of our respondents rated soil moisture short, 78 percent rated it adequate and 3 percent rated it surplus.

PLOWING: Spring plowing in Pennsylvania was 89 percent completed by week's end. Last year 87 percent was complete. The five-year average was 86 percent. Completion of spring plowing was 83, 91, and 94 percent in the northern, central, and southern regions, respectively.

CORN: The commonwealth's corn crop was 64 percent planted by the end of the week. At this time last year, 52 percent was planted, the five-year average was 51 percent. Planting completion by region were: northern region-49 percent; central region-67 percent; and southern region-76 percent.

TOBACCO: All of Pennsylvania's tobacco beds were planted by the end of the week. Both last year and the five-year average were 100 percent complete by this time.

OATS: By week's end, 95 percent of Pennsylvania's oats were planted. Last year, that figure was 93 percent. The five-year average was 94 percent planted. Planting completion in the three regions were northern region-90 percent, central region-96 percent, and southern region-100 percent. The oats crop was rated 23 percent excellent, 56 percent good, 17 percent fair, and 4 percent poor.

You won't strike out with this excellent performer. Outstanding seedling vigor, tall leafy stalks and large girthy ears are just a few of this hybrid's super features.

7820

A strong, reliable starter, this one plays well under a wide variety of conditions. Adapts well to high populations as well as dry situations. In fact, 7820 sent PX9540 and 3343 to the showers early in 1989.

4440

This one has the potential to lead the league in bushel advantage. Big yields of high test weight grain and fast drydown make this superstar an attractive choice.

-Many farms have fire ponds but very few have good roads to the ponds, New Providence 4-H members were told at their recent meeting.

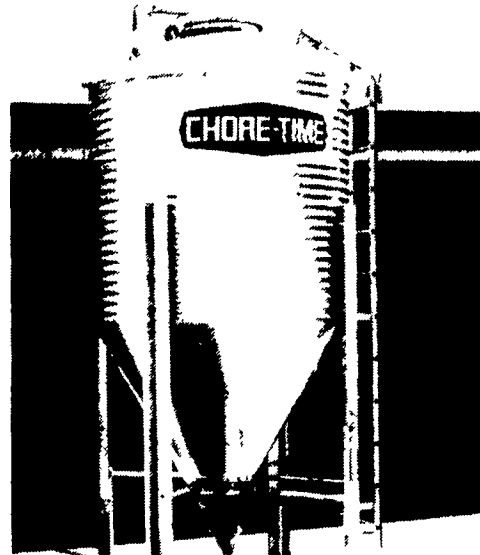

Guest speaker A. N. McConnell, president of the Willow Street fire company, told club members most of the roads to farm fire ponds are not capable of holding the heavy fire fighting equipment; therefore, pumpers are needed.

Miss C. Jane Henry, reporter for the club, announces the next meeting of the club which will be June 1, in the New Providence Elementary School.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample send your name, address, and phone number today to: Department 20202, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

prime farmland are now enrolled in Agricultural Security Areas under another department program to save farmland.

The Pennsylvania Animal Health Commission was also created under the Casey Admininistration. The commission develops policy on animal health, research, diagnostic and indemnity programs in the state. It also advises the Department of Agriculture on animal health research funding.

During Wolff's first term as agriculture secretary, the department set new export records for agriculture products and created a marketing campaign to help consumers identify quality products from Pennsylvania. The campaign utilizes a new logo and slogan, "Pennsylvania Pride...Quality from Our Home to Yours."

Capital improvements to the Farm Show Complex under the Casey Administration total more than $8 million. Improvements include a new roof for the Large Arena and better heating, lighting, and sound systems. In addition, ground will be broken this month for a $3.2 million addition that will add 80,000 square feet to the exhibition area.

Wolff, 60, has been secretary of agriculture for four years. A graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Wolff was a full-time farmer for 33 years and operated a 410-acre dairy farm in Westmoreland County. He was named a Pennsylvania Master Farmer in 1970. In addition, he received the Outstanding County Farm Conservation Award in 1975, Outstanding Grassland Award in 1976, and the Distinguished Service To Agriculture Award in 1977.

Wolff previously served as state director of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and as president of the Westmoreland County Cooperative Extension Service. He has served on the board of trustees of Pennsylvania State University since 1984.

In 1990, Wolff was elected chairman of the Northeastern Association of State Departments of Agriculture. He also serves as chairman of The National Association of State Department of Agriculture (NASDA) Dairy Food and Drug Committee and is a member of NASDA's Board of Directors.

Since becoming secretary, Wolff has received the "Service to Dairying Award" for his efforts to coordinate dairy promotion programs in Pennsylvania. He was also recognized by the Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association for the department's assistance to the poultry industry.

Gov. Robert Casey

and watch as more than 150 4-H and FFA youth from seven counties exhibited their animals.

Entries this year were at an all-time high, with 220 dairy entries.

Of special interest was the appearance of Richard Pugh of Howard County. Pugh was an exhibitor at the very first show in 1929 when he was 14 years old. At that time, it was known as the McDonough School Show, under the direction of Richard Wills, who was a teacher and superintendent.

Wills held the first fitting and showing contest to help the boys working in the barns at the school to put into practice what they were learning. There were only seven or eight participants in the first show.

Later, the show included horses as well. Today the show is named for Mr. Wills, and has expanded to include, beef, chickens, rabbits, and goats.

Robbie Shaw, president of the Washington County Holstein Club, served as judge for the colored breeds, and Richard Kepler from Middletown judged the Holsteins. Both judges spent several hours with the various classes of fitting and showing, giving pointers to each individual to help them become better showmen.

JCY Sterling Apices - Et exhibited by Robin Cotter of Montgomery County was selected supreme champion overall breeds of the show.

Judges Shaw and Kepler selected John Schnebly of Washington County champion overall breeds in fitting and showmanship. Following is a list of show placings.

Pa. Young Dairymen's Organization Plans Picnic Meeting

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Spring is in the air and there is a lot of work to be done on the farm, but give yourself a break — attend the first south-central regional meeting of the Pennsylvania Young Dairymen's Organization on June 9.

If you are interested in a day of socializing and relaxation, come to Pleasant View Farms, in Blain. Fill out the accompanying form and mail it by June 1.

The purpose of this first meeting is to gather ideas for future meetings, make contacts with other interested individuals, and to enjoy an afternoon free from work.

Dairy farmers and enthusiasts from Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry and York counties are invited to join in the festivities.

Logan Bower, owner of Pleasant View Farms, is organizing this picnic. Those who attend will enjoy a chicken barbeque made from his own special recipe.

Everyone is asked to bring a covered dish. Drink, place setting and chicken are provided. For desert, ice cream and fresh strawberries is planned. The cost is $5 per family.

Following lunch, a number of activities are scheduled, including tours of the farm and sports events. The day is designed for everyone's participation. The goal is to have fun.

An informal meeting will be held during the afternoon to make plans and organize in general.

For more information, call either Ken Raney at (814) 234-0364, or Mary Ann Keith at (717) 933-4356.

Pleasant View Farms is located in Perry County near Blain. There is no direct route. To get there, study a map and determine the best route. To find the farm on the map, Follow Rt. 274 west out of Blain for 2 1/4 miles from the center of town. Mount Pleasant Road is on the right. Travel that road for about a half of a mile. The first farm is Mount Pleasant.

Windmill Farms: Which Way Does The Breeze Blow?

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
PINE GROVE (Schuylkill Co.) — The windmill at Windmill Farm isn't turning.

There's no way to test the wind. A 40-foot windmill at the home farm of W. Ronald Daubert, Pine Grove, doesn't work. It's stuck in time, unable to reposition in order to take advantage of changes in the wind's direction.

The situation with the windmill could be symbolic of other aspects of the Windmill Farm — with the low milk prices being paid, the top-notch Brown Swiss operation is also stuck in time, unable to switch direction should the breeze of the dairy industry also change.

But in a way, the Daubert family farm situation is completely reversed.

Perhaps a better description of Windmill Farm is that it is a fully greased, ready-to-react mechanism just waiting for the wind to blow.

Specifically: Daubert's 100-cow milking herd produces a lot of protein, but no one pays for it.

The dairy industry scholars have predicted a benefit to dairymen who take care to breed cattle which produce milk with a high percentage of protein.

Daubert said he agrees with the prediction. "I think we have our herd fine-tuned for the future," he said.

But he also said he has to ask himself, "When? When will it happen?"

It is a question that has been heard before in the Pine Grove area.

In the small town of Pine Grove, unemployment is relatively high. The heyday of the coal industry in the region, which offered the security of a job in the mines after getting out of school, is gone.

There's mine acid draining in some of the streams and the mountains are pockmarked with old coal strip mines.

Schuylkill County is the lower west end of the "coal region" and the acid drainage and abandoned mine scars are lifeless reminders of an industry which grew quickly, but couldn't sustain.

Jobs with coal still exist, but the once-giant provider no longer offers the masses a bread and butter livelihood.

But those who worked the mines had heard the predictions of the closing of the mines, and other stories too.

How does one position oneself in order to take advantage of opportunities that haven't happened yet, and continue to stay in business?

Is it timing, genius, or just luck that make some people get rich from the same business that financially drains others?

Although the soil is rocky and too easily dried out, farming in the coal region has also been a heritage.

Just east of Pine Grove, on the way to the neighboring town of Cressona, a narrow valley widens to a couple miles between peak ridges.

There are large rolling hills stretching lengthwise between the walls of the valley and the floor is wide enough to squeeze two, maybe three, small family farms from forest edge to forest edge.

Most of the farms are used for commercial Christmas tree enterprises.

But up against the base of the northern mountain ridge is Daubert's 100-acre family dairy farm.

A family farm for three generations, it was started by Daubert's father about 75 years ago, after he served a brief stint in the mines.

It was his father who started dairying with the big, easy-going Brown Swiss breed. It was on a 50-acre farm with mediocre soil.

Mediocre is not an insult. It is an apt description — the word is derived from the Latin "mediocris," which means halfway up a mountain. A stony mountain.

According to Ronald the "soil is deep, but gravelly. It takes a little more water."

It's good enough, however, to offer up about 100 bushels of corn per acre, and soybeans do well, giving up about 50 bushels.

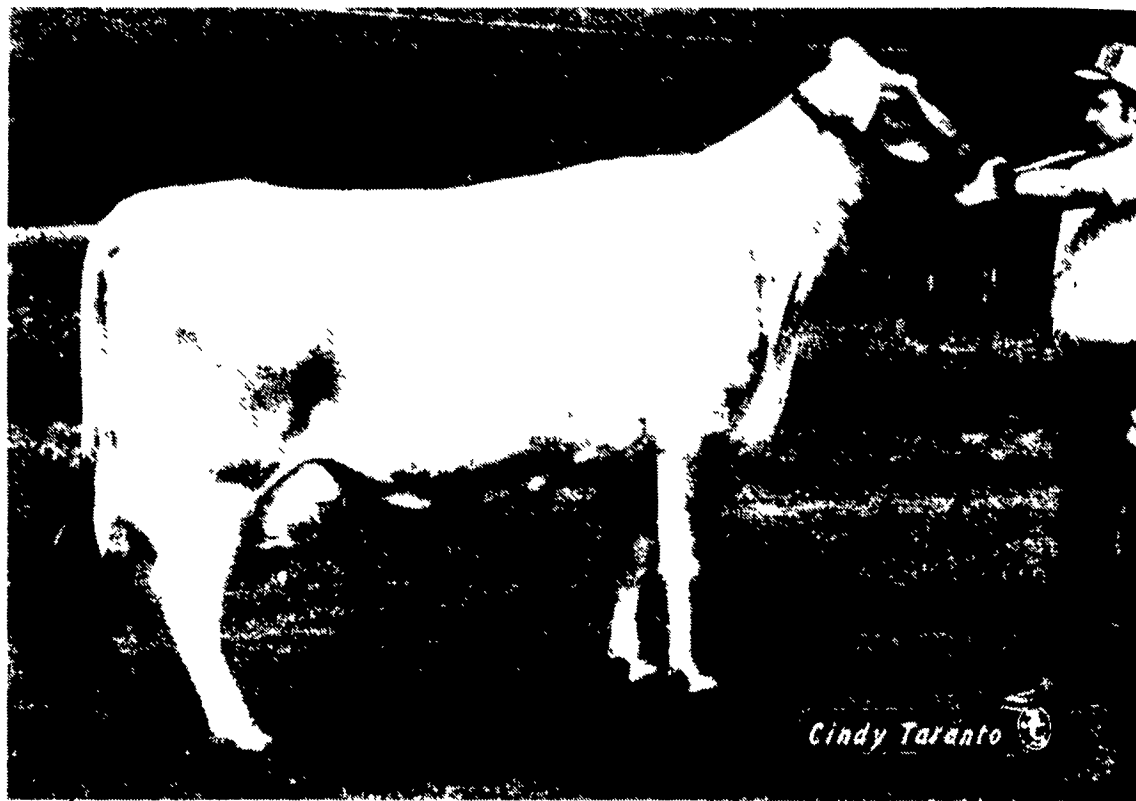

Ronald (as he is best known instead of his sir-name of William) started with the family farm in 1950. He had 16 Brown Swiss cows then. Now he milks 100. And over the years he doubled the size of the farm acreage.

Three of Ronald's four sons work full time at the farm. The eldest son, Dean Daubert and his wife Brenda, have their own Brown Swiss herd near Lock Haven, in Clinton County.

Working the home farm are Dennis, 33, Ronald Ray, 32 and Allen, 24.

Windmill Improver Helena grazes in front of the farm sign. She comes from a line of excellent cows at Windmill Farm.

One of the top Brown Swiss cows at Windmill Farm would be welcome in any herd. Windmill Joan-T, an Excellent, still in the line-up, as a 14-year-old she failed, for the first time, to produce at least 20,000 pounds of milk. She missed the mark by 300 pounds.

While not a true business partnership, the father-and-sons' operation works well for now — they all share responsibilities and own a few of the cows in the herd.

They also share in the lean times.

"If anybody lost 25 percent of their salary, they'd know just what it's like," Ronald said.

"If every dairy loses as much as we are, the dairy industry is going to be in bad shape."

According to Ronald, he is receiving $4 less per hundred-weight of milk than he did a year ago. That translates to a loss of about $4,000 to $5,000 in income per month. Meanwhile, expenses haven't dropped, but gone up because of fuel prices and minimum wage and every other cost added on because of changes since last year.

Last week — while taking a break from cleaning out the large manure storage tank he purchased under the Chesapeake Bay program to help better use the manure and cut down on fertilizer costs — Ronald squinted in the unusually hot sun of early May.

It was too hot to stand unprotected for very long. Perspiration beaded lightly on his forehead.

Like most dairymen who are asked what they plan to do in view of the record low milk prices, worry was evident on Ronald's face. Daubert didn't have an answer. He said what many are saying, "Something must be done."

But the hounds aren't on his heels yet. The Windmill Farm operation is strong, if not in profits, in the willingness of the family to see themselves through hard times and to continue improving.

And they obviously are enjoying life together. There is room for laughter and humor in the conversation between father and sons.

They are biding their time, keeping things running as smoothly as possible until the promised day comes when milk protein is valued the way it is overseas.

Or near a cheese factory.

"If we had a cheese plant around here, we'd be doing really well," Ronald said.

He said a great deal of progress has been made in breeding for protein with the Jersey and Brown Swiss.

"The jersey people really gaining on it and Brown Swiss people are working on it.

"Paying for protein is coming, but it could still be 10 years."

In the meantime, the Windmill Farm 100-cow, free-stall operation has been serving them well for some time.

They rent an additional 300 acres to raise grains and hay. About 100 acres is used mostly for alfalfa, about 30 acres for timothy and mixed hay for the heifers.

(Turn to Page A33)

Vine Valley Patrick Hatty, 4-E, is one of the great cows at the Daubert Farm. A 6-year-old, she has sturdy and well formed rear legs. There's little to not like, especially when she produced 29,000 pounds of milk.

Lebanon County Holstein Club Offers Tours

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Club has created a brochure listing 28 member farms which offer a standing invitation to visit their farms.

A short greeting accompanies a listing and a corresponding map: "We the . . . breeders of Lebanon County, welcome your visit to our farms. Many high quality cows can be found in the Lebanon Valley. Numerous area Holstein breeders are located within a 15-mile radius of the city of Lebanon."

"When planning a tour or vacation, we invite you to include Lebanon County on your agenda."

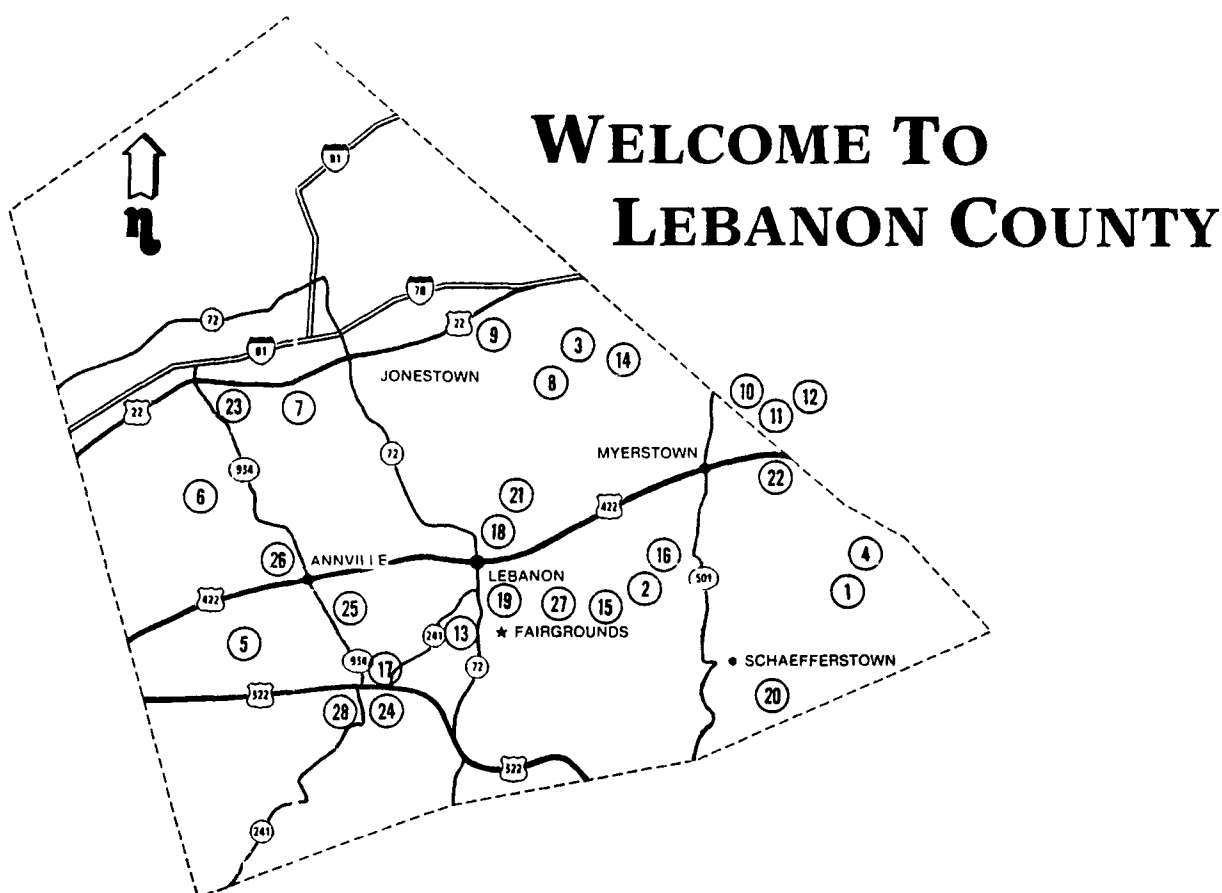

According to Vincent Wagner, president of the county Holstein club, the idea of creating a brochure was borrowed from something that the Somerset County club did years ago.

"We talked about it (printing brochures) for a couple of years," Wagner said. Then, with the county having the highest rolling herd average for milk in 1989 and the highest for milk, fat and protein last year, the idea received full support when it was brought before the club.

Printed on slick glossy paper, the brochure lists the names, addresses and phone numbers of 28 members and lists an outlined calendar of events.

The brochures are available through members, the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, and at the Lebanon County extension office.

Those planning a tour or vacation in the area and wish to visit a farm should call Wagner at (717) 949-2046, or Kenneth Winebark, county agent, at (717) 270-4391.

Windmill Farms

about 50 acres of rye is double cropped on the corn. About 100 acres of corn is used for silage. About 150 acres is used for high moisture corn. Soybeans are raised on about 10 acres.

All the crops are raised for the livestock.

There is also a large family garden and a couple of the bull calves are raised as steers for family use.

The rye is stored on the ground, under tarp secured with tires. In the fall, it is opened up and topped with corn silage.

The farm has some very good cows. A number of them are classified Excellent. The Daubert name is continually among those reported by the National Brown Swiss Association for having cows with outstanding production.

The rolling herd average last year was a little low — a problem with feed — at 14,975 pounds of milk, 584 pounds of fat and 542 pounds of protein.

This year the production averages are up. The feed is better. The total mixed rations are higher in protein, etc.

They sell their milk to the local dairy handler, "Guers." And that helps keep the Dauberts' business alive. Guers sell about 85 percent of their milk as Class I, which brings the highest price, Ronald said.

There has been no new machinery purchased for a while. The most recent acquisition is a 1974 tractor. The last silo went up in 1982.

When Ronald was in high school his father started keeping Brown Swiss. He has taken the herd from 10,000 pounds of milk to 17,000 in the past 40 years breeding to the best bulls available.

It wasn't until 1960 that Ronald bought a bulk milk tank. Then in the mid to early 1970s, Ronald built a 175-foot free stall barn and got his first "blue silo." Two years later he put up another silo for high moisture corn.

The slurry storage is the most recent purchase, but that was cost shared and represented a needed investment.

Ronald said that he never noticed the benefit of spreading manure all winter long. Now with the slurry storage, he said he noticed a big improvement in plant growth. "I'll tell you, you haul it during the last 30 days before planting corn and you can see it being used (by the plants). All that manure that gets put on during the winter only goes into the creek."

But there are other aspects of the farm which help provide extra, though not dependable amounts of income.

That's through the marketing of their genetics.

There're cows like Windmill Distinction Elissa, a 7 years 4 months who produced more than 1,000 pounds of fat during the last two lactations and is steady about 24,000 pounds of milk and 900 pounds of protein.

She just freshened with a heifer calf by Emery, the high genetic bull in the Brown Swiss breed, according to Ronald. His genetics reportedly carry no recessive negative traits.

The calf is not for sale, but he planning to flush Elissa within the next 30 days so embryos will be available.

"There's some interest in the foreign market in her," he said.

The Dauberts figure that marketing genetics represents anywhere from 5 to 20 percent of their business, depending on what situation they're in.

They have sold bulls — two at Atlantic Breeders, one at Select Sires, one at Nova and one is going to Tri-State.

"And there's a bit of future interest for bulls out of high protein cows," he said.

There are other cows very worthy of mention that have helped build up the herd. Three cow families really represent the Daubert herd.

There's Vine Valley Patrick Hatty, a 4E cow that as a 6-year-old had a top milk production of 29,000 pounds, 1,200 pounds of butterfat. He has 25 heifers from that family.

Windmill Joan-T, a 14-year-old Excellent, she just missed making more than 20,000 pounds of milk for the first time in her life. She missed that mark by only 300 pounds. He has had about 40 offspring from her, about half male.

They've flushed her every three months or so and have gotten five to six good embryos.

Flushing helps stretch out the lactation and they try to get a full 365-day lactation from a high producing cow.

They have other cows also, and Daubert has always . . . well there was one grade animal he owned. "She had two heifer calves and I got rid of her."

Most freestall operations use a milking parlor. The Dauberts, however, milk out of their 35-stanchion stable. The high group is split into two groups and the low group fills it another time.

Ronald said he splits up his high and low group both according to milk production and group size. It has been averaging around a cutoff of 45 pounds of milk per day.

Those starting out today in dairying probably would not do well with buying an all-registered Brown Swiss herd, according to Ronald. That's because milk is still sold on volume and premiumed on fat content.

He said that a Holstein herd would most likely be the best way to get a faster return on investment, but that someone who wants to eventually take advantage of the higher-protein producing Brown Swiss should start with a few animals and slowly build the herd that way, over the years.

Curtis To Speak At Sheep Field Day

ROCHESTER (Beaver Co.) — Dr. Stanley Curtis, head of the department of dairy and animal science at Penn State University, will be the featured speaker at the Western Pennsylvania Sheep and Pasture Management Field Day.

The field day is scheduled for Saturday, June 15 at the Lewis Family Farm in New Sewickley Township from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Lewis Family Farm has seventy Polypay sheep and five Simmental cattle grazing on 150 acres of rolling farmland in Beaver County.

The program will feature pasture management and fencing demonstrations, a no-till drill exhibition, a workshop on anthelmintics (parasite control), a sheep facilities and handling demonstration, alternative marketing of lamb and wool, and the latest technique in moving water — a hydro ram pump.

The program is free and supported by the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association; The Beaver, Butler, Lawrence County Wool Growers Association; and Penn State University.

CHARGE is a high energy foliar nutrient containing: 1. Nitrogen for fast growth and abundant foliage 2. Phosphorus for root development and early maturity 3. Potassium for sugar and starch formation and increased size and quality + Humic acid, which enables plants to better utilize the nutrients absorbed by the plant.

Used as part of a regular fertilizer program, CHARGE helps plants become more efficient users of nutrients, promoting healthier, higher yielding crops and bigger profits for growers.

EASY AS A-B-C

Follow steps A & B for best results. Step C alone may result in minimal benefits.

A Starter fertilizer in transplant water (2qts. per acre water) followed by 1-2 foliar applications thereafter (2 qts. per acre)

B Foliar applied at least two weeks after transplant (2 qts. per acre) followed by 1-2 applications at same rate

C Applied only at times of stress (adverse growing conditions) plants can be brought out of this situation but have lost extra yield potential. The way to bigger yields and more profit is maintaining levels of nutrients in your plants before the deficiency occurs. Remember, soil and leaf analysis help you know the requirements of your crop to maximize yield and profit potential.

N.Y. Grange Hails Price Increase, Warns Problem Not Solved

CORTLAND, N.Y. — The New York State Grange has reacted favorably to a decision to raise the minimum price paid to dairy farmers for their milk, but organization officials said other problems still lie ahead.

On May 2, New York Mayor Mario Cuomo signed emergency legislation to authorize the commissioner of agriculture and markets to set a minimum price paid to farmers for milk. The law also includes provisions to prevent retail price gouging.

The new minimum price set is $13.85 per hundredweight for Class I fluid use (drinking milk) and $10.30 for milk produced for all other purposes.

According to a N.Y. Grange spokesman, it is a step in the right direction, but there are other concerns.

"There are other clouds on the horizon," says Bert S. Morse, the Grange's Legislative Director.

The Grange pushed hard for the new minimum price because the industry has been devastated by simultaneous cuts in prices paid to producers and increased production costs.

"Auction sales have been at a high point," Morse said. "Many dairymen simply have not been able to afford to stay in business."

Among the other concerns posed by Morse are:

- The possibility that dealers who have been paying a premium will remove that premium thereby nullifying a share of the projected 80-cent increase per hundredweight in blend price as a result of the commissioner's minimum price.

- An increase in the freight differential for producers beyond the 210-mile zone will add to the dairyman's cost of production.

- A rise in prices to the consumer by the retailers could reduce sales and exert a downward pressure on prices to the producers. Strong evidence is available to show that in the current pricing schedule, the dollars are already available to absorb the increased price to the producer without increasing the cost to the consumer.

er. Figures have been released to show that retailers have increased their profits the past quarter by over 20 percent.

- The dairyman may try to recoup some of his losses for the past months by further increasing his production, thus building a downward pressure on prices over the long term. The current emergency legislation is applicable for 180 days.

- Many producers can't realize that the 5-cent-per-cwt assessment by the federal government will not be refunded if his production has increased, that he must share an additional cost to money refunded to producers who cut their production, and that a farm plan on federal programs must be registered and in compliance with USDA's Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service offices to qualify for the refund of the assessment.

- There is a real need for a supply management program to forestall a repeat of the current crisis.

According to Morse, the New York State Grange will continue to work to achieve an acceptable profit return for the dairymen.

It seeks a more aggressive marketing program for dairy products, adjustments in the pricing formula to give greater acknowledgment to the cost of production, and the need to react to problems with greater speed and the need to bring dairy groups closer together to present a united front to meet problems.

PFA Recommends Extension

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) is recommending a one-year extension of a $1.05/cwt. over-order premium for Class I milk produced by Pennsylvania dairymen.

In testimony recently before the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) in Harrisburg, the statewide, voluntary farm organization urged adoption of a $1.05 over-order price starting July 1, 1991 and continuing through June 30, 1992.

The current $1.35/cwt. premium is scheduled to end on June 30, 1991.

PFA cited milk market conditions as the reason for not requesting extension of the extra 30 cents/cwt. premium which was established last December in response to petroleum price increases.

"It is our judgement that the current milk oversupply could cause the movement of milk into Pennsylvania markets if the current ($1.35/cwt.) PMMB Class I over-order price continues," said PFA Dairy Specialist Mel Eckhaus.

Also testifying on behalf of PFA-member dairy farmers was Harold Shaulis, Jr., a member of PFA's Board of Directors and chairman of its Dairy Advisory Committee. Shaulis, who operates a 130-cow dairy farm in Somerset County, told the PMMB, "The dramatic drop in milk prices paid to farmers in the past four months has once again placed our state's dairy farm families in a situation where the total cost of doing business is more than the price received."

PFA cited statistics from the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service showing that the average cost of milk production in Pennsylvania -- without including a charge for management or interest on equity -- is $12.40/cwt. while the average price received by dairymen has dropped from $12.51/cwt. in January, 1991 to a price in March, 1991 that PFA estimates is $12.36/cwt.

"Clearly, if prices continue at current levels, the cost of production for the calendar year 1991 will be higher than the price received, without any consideration for management or interest on equity," said Eckhaus. Current conditions indicate prices received by producers will not be increasing in the near future, he added.

PFA believes that, "...in order to maintain a viable dairy industry in Pennsylvania, charges for management and interest on equity capital should be included when calculating the total cost of operating a dairy farm business," Eck-haus explained.

Basing a management charge at a level equal to 5% of milk receipts and applying a rate of 6% to the average equity of Pennsylvania farms shows that the cost of production is really $16.34/cwt. instead of $12.40/cwt. PFA testified.

Subtracting the price received, even including the PMMB Class I over-order price in place, yields a negative margin of $2.45 per hundredweight for the 12 months ending March 30, 1991, Eckhaus told the board.

Although the need exists to further boost the Class I over-order price above the current level in order to meet production costs, Eckhaus said, consideration must be given the effects that markets bordering Pennsylvania exert when Pennsylvania prices are higher than those that can be established in surrounding areas.

Therefore, Eckhaus and Shaulis testified, PFA recommends a 12-month extension of an over-order price at the $1.05/cwt. level.

PFA is a general farm organization representing 23,000 families.

(about 2,000 head per year) and beef cattle (up to 35 head per year). He farms a total of 150 acres, with 100 acres devoted to corn, 20 to wheat and oats, and 30 to hay.

Century Farm

Blaine spoke about some of the woes and joys of farming. Only recently, the farm was honored as a Pennsylvania Century Farm — one of 31 in Pennsylvania the first quarter this year — a farm that has been owned by the same family for more than 100 years.

The Souder farm is one of 1,545 such farms already recognized by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. These farms form "the backbone of our state and nation," said Boyd E. Wolff, ag secretary.

"I think we feel fortunate at this point to have had the opportunity to farm," said Blaine's wife, Linda, who helps with the farm and does the bookkeeping. She also works full-time as manager of the Family Heritage Country Furniture Shop in Franconia. In addition, Blaine works full time at Bergey's Inc., Franconia, in the tire department.

The farm was originally purchased in 1867 by Blaine's great-great-grandfather Henry Bergey, a total of 78 acres. Bergey began as a dairy farmer, and the farm stayed so until 1955. At that time, Blaine's father began operating it, with a steer and turkey "market route" that stretched down into Philadelphia.

The Souders use a bus to transport the hogs to market.

W. Blaine Souder, a Telford, Pa. (Franconia Township) farmer purchased 54 acres of a farm mostly devoted to feeder hogs (about 2,000 head per year) and beef cattle (up to 35 head per year). Here, he moves feeder pigs inside a newly constructed facility.

grandfather, worked and maintained the farm through the years.

The job is hectic, since both husband and wife work full-time outside the farm. But Blaine's work offers him flexibility to attend the crops and livestock when necessary.

Some hard times have fallen on the hog industry, as well. Last year, most producers were in the middle of an upsurge in prices for market hogs. Now, with the recession, according to Blaine, hog prices haven't been all that good compared to last year and prices of shoats have been high.

Blaine said he would enjoy converting his operation to a farrow-to-finish operation, but he would need to go into farming full-time. "I like this, if there was more money in it," he said. "That's why I keep those hours. Till you try to make up all your benefits, it's hard.

Tempted to quit
"You know, if you had good years like last year, it's fine, you could do it. It almost makes you tempted to quit (working outside the farm). But when you get into a tough year, you're glad you have something else to fall back on," he said.

The Century Farm designation means a lot to the Souders, who want to keep the farm in the family. They have three children — Bronwen, 16; Bethany, 13; and Becca, 10 — who help on the farm.

The girls work "mostly with the pigs," said Blaine, "moving them, getting them sorted out for market, and cleaning the pens. Evertime I empty a pen I wash it down and they help with that."

"I guess we're pretty much family oriented," said Linda. The girls help load the hogs into the bus to go to market, at either Leidy's or Hatfield. "I relinquished my job to the girls as they got older," she said.

Turned over

The Souders hope that the farm can be turned over to their daughters. Blaine said "it all depends if I would get a son-in-law that would want to help, I guess. That would probably determine whether I'd keep pushing for it."

All the while, however, the Souders keep feeling the pressure from real estate developers to build on the farmland. Many farms in the area are feeling the same kind of pressure.

Luckily, according to Blaine, the pressure "is not too bad right there. We don't have water and sewer yet, so it's not too bad," he said.

Blaine said they get letters, "a couple of times a year, (asking if we) wanted to sell." But the Souders believe they are "too rural" for what the developers want in Franconia Township.

Pressure increases
But development pressure increases. "I guess it's coming," he said. "Two of the farms I rent, they're waiting for this recession and they're going in there and developing it."

Blaine considers the job ideal, and would enjoy putting in a farrowing operation. "I don't know, I'm getting older. Whether I would do it now or not, I don't know."

Blaine said his daughters also enjoy farming. He said he would pass it down to them if they showed interest.

"I'd think we'd be happy just if it would stay in farming," said Linda.

presenting leadership speeches for all who attend. Lohr will address the convention on Wednesday. The major emphasis of his speech will be strengthening agriculture education programs and increasing participation in FFA activities on all levels.

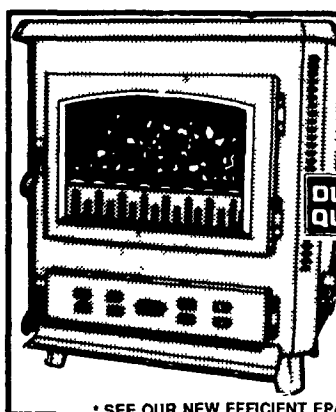

Lohr, originally from Virginia, was elected at the 63rd National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., last November. His visit to Pennsylvania is only a fraction of the 200,000 miles that he will travel while fulfilling the duties of his office.

According to Larry Redding, state FFA advisor, agriscience, agricultural proficiency, and other awards will be presented to outstanding members, and top chapters will receive Safety and Superior Chapter awards.

The Pennsylvania state FFA officers will preside over the convention. They are Keith Hay, president; Gregory Hamish, state vice president; Toni Gomez, secretary; Eric Marshall, treasurer; John Rishel, sentinel; Larry B. Fesser Jr., chaplain; Matthew Zerby, reporter; Jennifer Brown north vice president; Jasor Franke, east vice president; Larry Smeltz, south vice president; and Nevin Hersch III, west vice president.

Sixty official delegates from the 195 FFA chapters in Pennsylvania will represent the membership by voting on proposals for the upcoming year. A select few of these delegates will serve on the nomination committee which will elect the 1991-1992 State Officer Team.

FACT: BIG JIM®
COLD!

The Jamesway Big Jim system unloads silage from the top, then discharges it down a big pre-formed center hole and out the bottom. Result: You can store high moisture silage—with more total feed value than low moisture silage—without cold weather worries. And without the big price tag of oxygen-limiting, bottom-unloading systems. See us soon for details.

ONLY THE
REAL RING-DRIVE MEASURES UP.

A make believe ring drive is not a real ring drive if it has nuisance weights to adjust in order to keep the machine level—it relies on the lead auger to do part of the driving of the machine—it doesn't have wide wall-to-wall, three cable hexapod suspension—it has a small diameter ring. Jamesway Volumaster Real Ring Drive Unloaders give you what you paid for—more power, smoother operation, longer life, less down time, faster unloading, less strain on the entire unloading mechanism and fewer trips up the silo.

So, have a talk with your Jamesway dealer soon and have him show you, in even more detail, how only a Real Ring Drive makes sense in today's sharp-pencil dairy business.

Atlantic Dairy Supports Two-tier Pricing

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's board of directors has announced its support of two-tier pricing as a means to improve dairy farmer income by balancing the nation's milk supply with market demand.

The board's approval of a two-tier pricing plan is in response to current industry debate on the development of a nationwide milk inventory management program. The purpose of such a program, which is mandated under the 1990 Farm Bill, is to limit national milk surpluses by managing production on the farm.

By balancing the nation's milk supply with demand, dairy farmers will receive a more consistent price for their milk, said Robert B. McSparran, president of Atlantic's board. Two-tier pricing is a means of achieving this goal.

"A two-tier pricing program will tailor supply to the needs of the market," McSparran said. "It will benefit farmers by halting the roller coaster price effects we are witnessing."

In concept, two-tier pricing sets two price levels for milk. Farmers receive a higher or market price on milk produced up to a predetermined level, and a lower price for milk produced over that level.

In supporting two-tier pricing, Atlantic's board also recommended three provisions that should be included in such a pricing program. These include the non-transferability of milk bases outside the immediate family, new producer start up, and a two-year rolling average to determine milk bases.

The board believes that dairy farmers should be allowed to transfer their milk bases, but only to immediate family members. This transfer usually occurs when a farmer has decided to retire and wishes to pass on the farm to a son or daughter.

The board also agreed that bona fide new producers should share in the higher price of a two-tier system until they are able to establish a milk base.

"A new producer provision must be included to give young farmers an access to market, as markets grow and older producers stop shipping," McSparran said.

The third provision supported by the board is that bases be established on a two-year rolling average. A two-year average, according to McSparran, will correct off-years, where production is affected by weather or other situations, and help producers increase their market share.

While acknowledging that other details for a national two-tier pricing plan need to be developed, McSparran said Atlantic's action is a first step.

"We need to have unified support for one inventory management plan," he said, "and Atlantic's board will work to achieve that goal."

Family Heir-Loom Weavers Remake History

York Co. Correspondent

RED LION (YORK CO.) — Long before you reach the door at Family Heir-Loom Weavers, a rhythmic clattering hints of activity inside the modest block building. The building among the shade trees and tidy lawns in the tiny settlement of Adamsville, offers little clue to the world-acclaimed craftsmanship perpetuated by this small, family-run business.

At Family Heir-Loom Weavers, they remake history.

Carol and David Kline and their son Pat own and operate Family Heir-Loom Weavers. From off their 11 vintage looms tucked into the nooks and crannies of the former Meadow View Dairy come exquisite and historically-correct coverlets and ingrain carpet, a product made only one other place in the world. The beauty and authenticity of the Kline's textile reproductions have brought customers from as close as Wheatland in Lancaster to as far away as New Zealand.

A native of Snyder County, David Kline began work there in the 1950s as a loom fixer with a fabric goods manufacturer. When that firm closed, he moved his family to York, and took a job with Tioga Textile Mills. Although he also worked with plaid-design looms, Kline's real affinity was for the intricate Jacquard loom.

The Jacquard loom operates from a series of punched cards, in a manner similar to the player piano or early computers. The punches in a single card determine how each "weft," or crosswise, thread is woven over or under the "warp," or lengthwise threads, to form the pattern. The cards are sewn together for a continuous, automatic feed. One complete round of the cards, as many as 1,500 for some designs, weaves a pattern "repeat" on the length of woven textile.

The loom is named for Joseph-Marie Jacquard, who invented the equipment, which enabled weavers to make textiles with more intricate and artistic designs. While geometrics and plaids can be woven on shaft looms, the Jacquard introduction put houses, people, animals, plants — even words — into textile patterns.

Kline lost his long-time loom fixing job in 1974, when the Tioga Mill closed. He then took a job running a drill press at Caterpillar. But his love for looms and textiles lingered. When layoff from Cat was imminent in 1982, Kline opted to take a chance on his own talents.

"I wanted to get back into weaving and I wanted to do Jacquard coverlets," says the cheerful, good-natured Kline. Antiques buffs, the Klines knew of no one weaving the sort of product they envisioned.

Initial investment was in two old looms that Kline bought and moved from L.K. Weaving in Wilkes-Barre. It took several months to get the looms in operating condition; the first coverlet was completed in October 1983.

"When people found out we were making coverlets, the orders started coming, just through word-of-mouth," he relates.

Two Jacquard coverlet designs are direct copies of historically-documented examples. An 1838 design by Andrew Kump of Hanover features "four roses with bird and bush border" and a coverlet featuring a house border with picket fence and animals is from an 1948 design of H. and A. Seifert of Mechanicsburg.

In keeping with the historic design of coverlets, Kline weaves in a personalized "signature block," a sort of advertisement weavers used to identify their textiles. Included on the signature block is the date, the place of weaving (Red Lion, PA), and the historically documented, if grammatically questionable, "Wove for (customer's name) by David Kline, Weaver."

Additional looms were acquired as they became obsolete for manufacturers seeking computerized equipment in which microchips have replaced punched cards. Several of Kline's looms are from the Philadelphia College of Textiles. Having torn down and rebuilt most of them from the nuts-and-bolts-stage, Kline has become an expert in the engineering, mechanics and make-do of loom restoration.

One large room at the weaving firm holds the "creel bank" and "warping wheel," equipment used to prepare the lengthwise, or weft, threads. The creel bank holds the numerous cones of threads in various colors, feeding them to the warping wheel in a pattern determined by the designer. Operating like a giant paddle wheel, the warping wheel winds the wefts into a loose, continuous roll of yarns to be threaded on the loom for weaving.

A 1923-model silk warper from the Bluebird Silk Mill in York, this massive piece of equipment was torn down by the Klines and moved, piece by piece, down elevators and onto trucks to relocate.

"The wheel alone had more than 600 bolts to remove — and most of those were old and brittle," he remembers, still shaking his head at the tedious job it turned out to be.

"We couldn't use new equipment to make the kind of product we do," Kline explains of the use of near-museum-era looms. "It must have a flat selvage along the edge, to sew the sections together. New looms don't finish edges in a selvage, since selvages aren't needed on most contemporary piece goods." The inventive Kline has added to his looms such touches as baler counters to track weaving progress and auto horns as alerts.

A 60-year-old Jacquard loom is used to make staircoverings, which are woven the length of a staircase and fitted snugly against each step with steel rods. As was done a century ago, extra length allows the entire piece to be moved ahead when repeated foot-steps have worn the staircovering in spots. The staircoverings are not only popular in museum restoration but also in private homes.

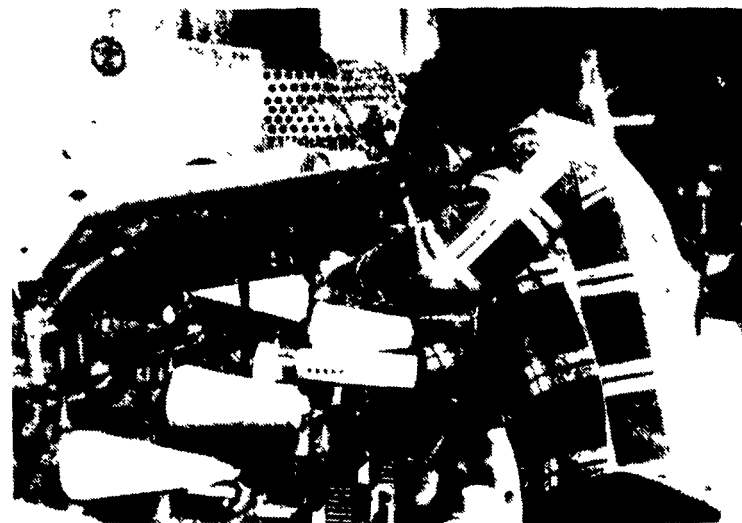

Ingrain carpet, in which the threads are dyed before weaving, was a popular, relatively inexpensive warm floor covering of a century ago.

"Most of the wool in the originals came from China and had a lot of 'kemp' in it," explains Kline. "Kemp is dead hair from a sheep fleece that has mostly been bred out of today's bloodlines. It was a cheaper wool."

Because domestic wool is too fine and soft for Heir-Loom's reproduction textiles, the Klines use coarser-fleece wools from New Zealand and Ireland. A blend of 80 percent wool and 20 percent nylon is used to make the in-grain carpet yarn. While historically correct in weight and twist-per-inch, the nylon adds strength and renders Kline's reproductions much more durable than the originals.

The Maple Leaf design of ingrain carpet held by David Kline is a popular one for historic reproductions and private homes and is one of the patterns woven for use in Abraham Lincoln's home.

Large cones of threads are split by Patrick Kline on a special machine into smaller units for weaving.

Kline launched the in-grain carpeting after a contact from an employee of the National Park Service who had one of their coverlets. That inquiry led to Kline's weaving ingrain for the home of President Abraham Lincoln in Springfield, Illinois, in their popular maple leaf pattern as well as geometrics and floral designs.

Subsequent in-grain carpeting jobs read like a list of must-visit historic sites: The Surrender Room of the McClean House at Appamatox, Virginia, where the Civil War officially ended; Wheatland, home of President James Buchanan in Lancaster; Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Michigan; Mark Twain's house in Hannibal, Missouri; the Russian Bishop's House in Sitka, Alaska; Waitangi Treaty House in Waitangi, New Zealand, and a numerous others across the country.

In some cases, an old picture is the only source of original pattern. In others, Kline has an actual piece of the original in-grain. Except for the brighter color of the reproduction, they appear nearly identical. Woven in yard-wide lengths, the sections are hand-stitched together along the selvaged edge, providing a neat, flat seam. A cushioned pad goes under the carpet at installation.

Development of a new pattern may take as much as six months from design beginning to a roll of warp ready for the loom. Designers lay out a pattern on tiny-section graph paper, known as a point paper or a "cartoon." A computer then reads the point paper and transfers it to a program for designing the punched cards.

Kline is currently weaving in-grain in geometric and floral designs for "Sunnyside," the home of author Washington Irving (Legend of Sleepy Hollow), in Tarrytown, New York. And Heir-Loom in-grain was recently installed at Niagra-On-The-Lake in the home of the inventor of the Trivial Pursuit game.

"We've been to visit some of the sites," says Carol Kline, whose friendliness and good humor welcomes customers to the small showroom-office. "After we did Lincoln's home, we thought it would be nice to visit where our carpet is installed, but we're too busy weaving to travel."

Heir-Loom Weaver's showroom is a casual, homey setting. A pet cat or two may be napping on the bed where a traditional coverlet in white, navy and cranberry is on display. Shelves hold displays of placemats, table runners, staircoverings, and the various textiles reproductions crafted on-site.

While Carol had formerly operated equipment like the quiller, which winds large spools of thread onto smaller "bobbins" for use in the loom shuttles, office chores and marketing now consume most of Carol's time.

Son Patrick became a weaver several years ago when he was laid off from the electronics industry. Though then unfamiliar with weaving, Pat learned quickly. Today, along with his full-time work at Heir-Loom, Pat has four looms in his garage where he weaves cloth for Civil War-era costuming and battle re-enactment garments.

Having helped his father tear down and rebuild much of the old weaving equipment, Patrick has become adept at loom mechanics. He also "banks the creel," the initial threading of the colored yarns onto the warping machine, according to design directions.

"We all pitch in at whatever needs doing," Carol says. That might include answering phones, talking with restoration publication editors, handling sales, trimming threads, or attending various regional craft shows at which the Kline's display their weaving.

Family Heir-Loom Weavers is located at R3, Box 59E, Red Lion, PA, 17356. They may be contacted at that address or by calling 717-246-2431.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Picnics are an important part of summer. There are many kinds of picnics and they can range from a box lunch shared by two people to an elaborate catered affair.

Last year my high school class rented a pavilion and had a caterer bring the food and other necessary items. It was a convenient way to serve 100 people.

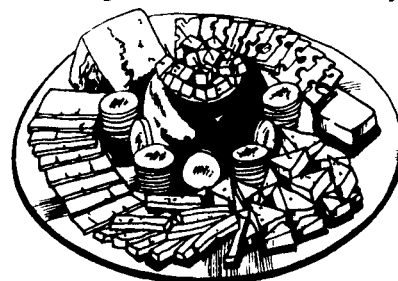

Sometimes my children would ask me to pack a bag lunch for them and they'd walk down into the meadow and sit along the river to eat it. They usually combined fishing with the little "get away" from work.

Years ago when my parents were living, we had an annual picnic in our meadow. One or two other families were also included and we used a stone fireplace that was built near the river bank. Floods, over the years, have destroyed every visible sign of it.

In those days the river was used a lot for swimming. In fact, on Sundays, we'd have several cars drive into our meadow for a few hours of country pleasure. At that time my father had a flock of sheep that kept the grass clipped very short. Today one would have to tiptoe around all of the cow piles.

I remember a double date where we took a basket lunch along and ate it on the grounds of the Gettysburg Battlefield. And, would you believe it, we allowed the boys to bring the food.

A group in our church recently had a picnic on the church grounds. We each brought a dish to share and ate in close proximity to the large modern kitchen. It was an evening with very nice weather but somehow it didn't seem like the old-fashioned picnics that I remember as a youth.

Safe Summer For Our Children

Youth 5 to 14 years of age have the highest rate of farm work injury of all age groups. The 5- to 14-year-old age group is almost two-thirds more likely to suffer a work accident than the 45 to 64 year-old group.

These statistics remind us of the hazards of farming for our children. Most of these injuries are related to tractor use, but our children are also exposed to other hazards.

Our school-age children have been supervised in a classroom setting for the last nine months. Soon they will be home with us. That may mean that because of field work or a spouse's employment, they may not be supervised as carefully during the summer as they were during the rest of the year.

For tractor safety, clearly the best routine we can begin is to set a rule for "No extra riders". Other safety issues may also require new routines.

Across the state, school-age children are being expected to take care of themselves for several hours during the day. For those children, your taking the time to help them learn about safety is important.

For instance, have you discussed what your children should do when a stranger comes to the door. During the summer months, utility company workers, sales representatives, and delivery trucks may stop by your farm. You may be out in the field or on an errand in town. You may not be immediately available to handle a situation.

Here are some simple directions. They may seem overly cautious, but they will make your home and children more protected. These are good skills that they can use wherever they go!

1. Always answer the phone or door. You do not want people to think that there is no one at home. The stranger could be a burglar. When answering, ask who it is and what they need. Do not unlock or open the door. Visitors and service persons can come back later if it is important.

2. Keep the conversation short. The more you talk, the more they know about you. Simply state that your parents cannot come to the door at the moment. "May I take your name and a phone number? I will have them call you." Do not say you are alone.

3. Set times when an adult will be back in the house, so the two of you can keep tabs on each other. Let each other know where you plan to be, doing what, for how long.

4. Review what your children should do in case they become injured. Children need to learn basic first-aid. Show them where band-aids, hydrogen peroxide, and antiseptic creams are. Talk to them about treating a burn.

Also discuss what to do for bigger emergencies — a fire, a serious injury. Do you have a 911 system in your area? Use it.

5. Set rules about using appliances, cooking, swimming, watching TV, and playing rough games.

Remember, a child may be independent enough to care for his or her own needs but may not be responsible enough to look after a younger brother or sister.

In order to avoid a child becoming bored and wanting to investigate things that may be dangerous (or wanting to "help" you with a farming operation that would be risky), give her jobs to do and build

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — When homeowners warm up the grill for outdoor cooking this summer, they could be subjecting themselves and their families to a mild case of preventable foodborne illness — if they don't observe commonsense food safety precautions.

The symptoms probably will include headache, abdominal pain, and diarrhea. These symptoms can occur anytime within two to 10 days after eating undercooked chicken or other meat, including fish. Large outbreaks occur most a list of fun things to do when her daily tasks are completed.

Children are special. They are also vulnerable. Take some time before the summer arrives to prepare them for the times when they may be alone. The whole family will feel more comfortable knowing they are safer.

Use Grill Without Getting Sick

often in May and October, while the number of individual cases tends to peak in midsummer — at the height of the barbecue season.

The malady being described is campylobacteriosis, probably the most common cause of summer-time foodborne illness — and the major year-round cause of diarrhea — according to Dr. Mark A. Kantor, food and nutrition specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland System.

Contaminated food is the usual cause, since direct person-to-person transmission is very rare, Kantor said.

As with all bacteria-caused foodborne illness, campylobacteriosis is entirely preventable when proper cooking and handling procedures are followed.

Kantor recommends these steps:

- Thoroughly cook all meat, poultry, and fish. Use a meat thermometer if possible. Make sure that interior temperatures of meat reach at least 160 degrees F. Heat poultry to at least 180 degrees F, or until the juices run clear.

- If using a microwave oven, rotate the meat manually if there is no automatic rotation device. This will help to insure uniform heating. Use the temperature probe if you have one. For outdoor cooking, try to use a grill with a cover.

- Thoroughly clean hands, utensils, and surfaces that touch raw meats. Don't place cooked meat back on an unwashed plate. Do not eat uncooked food, such as salad greens, that may be contaminated with juices from raw meats. Never reuse marinade.

- Refrigerate or freeze cooked meat and poultry within two hours after serving — within one hour on a hot day when temperatures are above 90 degrees F. Keep your refrigerator at 40 degrees F or below. Remember that refrigeration or freezing does not kill bacteria. Only thorough cooking does that.

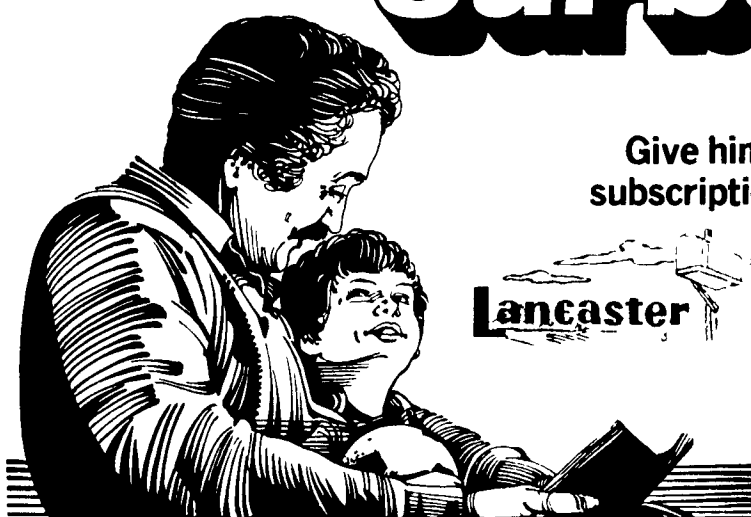

- Never taste-test uncooked meats.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

At this time of year, new rhubarb recipes are welcome, old rhubarb recipes sometimes need updating and some favorites just need repeating, since they haven't been used since last spring.

I remember one year when I tried to forget rhubarb in Microwave Minutes, I got many letters asking for rhubarb recipes. This year I'll share a new recipe, an updated family recipe, and a readers' favorite. Be sure to clip today's recipes and save them. Next year, you'll have to get out your old Microwave Minutes clippings or look in my cookbooks, because I won't be writing Microwave Minutes after next week.

I started writing "Microwave Minutes" in 1978 when microwaving was new. Now most newspapers and magazines run microwave recipes along with convention ones, so I figured that you don't need my help anymore. The microwave oven has become a part of most modern kitchens, kind of like the gas stove and the electric mixer did years ago.

I have lots of memories from writing Microwave Minutes and many treasured letters from you readers. I'll miss hearing from you. And, I'll miss keeping track of ingredients and writing everything down as I cook and experiment so that I can share new recipes with you.

I hope you clip and enjoy today's rhubarb recipes for this year and for many years to come. Rhubarb Cheesecake Squares is an old favorite from my Microwave Family Favorites cookbook. It also appeared in a past issue of Woman's Day Magazine as a Mankato, Minn., reader's favorite springtime recipe.

Rhubarb crisp is the easiest kind of rhubarb dessert to microwave and one of the best for eating too. It can be cooked in a square dish with no worry of corners overcooking. It's done in about 15 minutes, compared to 40 minutes in a conventional oven. Since the topping ingredients contain brown sugar and cinnamon, the finished dessert looks browned and appealing. (Nutrition is not the only reason I like to use whole-wheat flour in the topping—the brownish color helps add a "finished" look.)

I like to make up a double or even triple batch of the topping used in Rhubarb Blueberry Crisp. I use what I need for a recipe and refrigerate or freeze the rest for another time. If you have a food processor, use that to make the topping. (I've included directions below.)

Rhubarb Custard Crisp

3 cups sliced rhubarb, cut 1/2-inch thick

1/2 to 3/4 cup granulated sugar

3 tablespoons flour

1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

1/4 cup half and half or milk

2 eggs

1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened

1/2 cup whole-wheat flour or all-purpose flour

1/2 cup oatmeal (not instant)

1/2 cup brown sugar

1/4 cup chopped nuts

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine rhubarb, sugar, 3 tablespoons flour and nutmeg in a microwavable 9-inch round dish or 8x8-inch square dish. Add half and half and eggs; mix well and set aside.

Combine margarine, whole-wheat flour, oatmeal, brown sugar, nuts and cinnamon; mix with fork or pastry blender until crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over rhubarb mixture. Microwave (High) 12 to 14 minutes, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking, until rhubarb in center is tender. Serve warm or cold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving—1/8 recipe: 252 calories, 4g protein, 13g fat, 32g carbohydrate, 133mg sodium, 57mg cholesterol.

Rhubarb Blueberry Crisp

2 1/2 cups rhubarb, cut 1/2-inch thick

1/2 cup granulated sugar

2 tablespoons all-purpose flour

1 can (20 ounces) blueberry pie filling

1/2 cup margarine or butter

1/2 cup whole-wheat flour or all-purpose flour

1/2 cup oatmeal (not instant)

1/2 cup packed brown sugar

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine rhubarb, sugar and 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour in a deep microwavable 8x8-inch dish; stir in blueberry pie filling and set aside.

Combine margarine, whole-wheat flour, oatmeal, brown sugar and cinnamon; mix with fork or pastry blender until crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over rhubarb-blueberry mixture. Microwave (High) 14 to 17 minutes, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking, until center starts to bubble and rhubarb in center is tender. Serve warm or cold. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Each serving—1/12th recipe: 215 calories, 2g protein, 7g fat, 35g carbohydrate, 91mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

With your food processor: Margarine or butter should be cold. Use the knife blade in a dry work bowl. Process flour, brown sugar and cinnamon with 2 OF 3 on-off pulses until mixed. Hand-cut margarine into four pieces; add to work bowl and process with 4 or 5 on-off pulses or until mixture is crumbly. Stir in oatmeal.

Rhubarb Cheesecake Squares

1/2 cup butter or margarine

1 cup all-purpose flour

3/4 cup quick-cooking oatmeal (not instant)

1/2 cup packed brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup granulated sugar

1 egg

1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

2 cups rhubarb, cut 1/2-inch thick

Combine butter, flour, oatmeal, brown sugar, salt and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon; mix with fork or pastry blender until crumbly. Pat half into microwavable 8x8-inch dish.

In separate bowl, combine cream cheese, sugar, egg, nutmeg and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon; mix well. Stir in rhubarb; gently spread over crust. Top with remaining crumbly mixture, patting down with fork. Microwave (High) 9 to 11 minutes or until rhubarb is tender when tested with fork, rotating dish halfway through cooking. Let stand on flat surface 15 minutes. Cover and chill until firm. Cut into squares to serve. Store, covered, in refrigerator. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

Each serving—1/16th of recipe: 212 calories, 3g protein, 11g fat, 25g carbohydrate, 165mg sodium, 48mg cholesterol. Questions for

New Weigh Of Life

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Whether you want to lose 5 or 50 pounds, it's got to come off the same way: a pound at a time.

To lose one pound of weight, you need to follow this equation: Burn off 3,500 calories more than you take in from food. Looked at this way, it's clear that losing a pound — or pounds — a day through diet is not generally feasible. It would be nearly impossible to restrict daily intake of calories sufficiently and still get the proper nutrients needed to function effectively and maintain health. On the other hand, cutting out 500 calories per day while keeping the same level of physical activity will result in a weight loss of one pound per week. Although most people don't need to lose this much, over the course of the year, theoretically you could shed 52 pounds of unwanted fat.

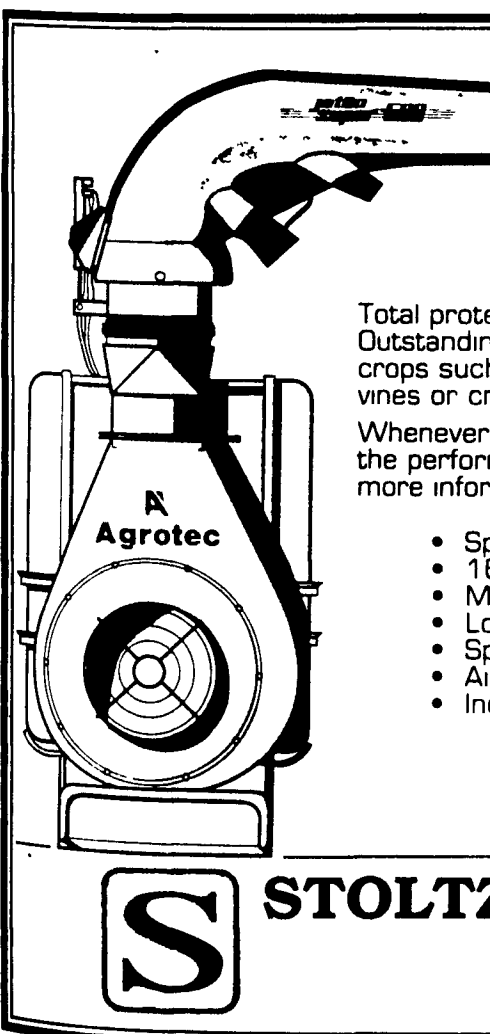

But let's get back to our single-pound equation. You'll note that another way to approach it, besides clipping calories from your diet, is through increased energy output.

Exercise, so often given little attention in fad diets, can help you not only lose that one pound but, in the long run, could be the decisive factor in your quest for good health.

It would be hard to exercise off 3,500 calories in a single day. On the other hand, putting dieting — or, as we prefer to call it, prudent eating — together with increased physical activity brings satisfying results. For example, a 150-pound person who walks an hour a day at the rate of 3 miles per hour uses up 320 calories in the effort, or 2,240 calories at the end of a week.

If you can add other activities — using the stairs instead of elevators, bicycling to work or to the convenience store, or even pacing around the office — you may be able to work off another 180 calories daily, to raise the weekly total to the magic 3,500. If you combine this level of activity with your plan to cut out 500 calories a day, you'll be losing 2 pounds a week at a sensible and satisfying rate.

Sizzling Recipes For Outdoor Cooking

While warm weather whispers of dinner on the grill, picnics and get-togethers, Americans differ in what food offerings constitute outdoor cooking.

From Pacific-style kabobs to North Carolina pig pickin', from Iowa chops to Pennsylvania grilled chicken, people agree that outdoor cooking is finger-licking good.

While grilling is a great low-calorie cooking method, since no extra fat is used in cooking, perhaps, your picnic needs call for previously prepared food. Don't despair. There are great recipes for picnic fare that can be prepared ahead of time. But, remember to keep cold things cold and hot things hot when eating outdoors. Food safety insures your day in the sun will leave pleasant memories. Happy Eating!

The cookbook may be ordered for $1.75 (including postage) by sending check or money order to the Chicken Cookbook, Department NBC, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

Judith Ann Markiewicz of Canton, Ohio won the top prize. She is a 33-year-old student at the University of Akron, majoring in food science. Her recipe can be served hot or cold, making it ideal for picnics.

SOUTHWESTERN OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN

4 broiler-fryer chicken drumsticks, skinned

4 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, skinned

3 slices white bread, torn in small pieces

3 tablespoons fresh cilantro leaves

2 tablespoons yellow cornmeal

1½ teaspoon ground cumin

½ teaspoon oregano leaves, crumbled

½ teaspoon salt, divided

¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper

¼ teaspoon ground cloves

2 teaspoons egg white

2 tablespoons Dijon mustard

1 tablespoon water

2 teaspoons honey

¼ teaspoon pepper

In food processor container, place bread, cilantro, corn meal, pine nuts, garlic, cumin, oregano, ¼ teaspoon of salt, cayenne pepper, and ground cloves. Process to form fine crumbs. Add egg white and mix until moist. Place mixture on a large shallow plate and set aside. In small bowl, mix together mustard, water and honey; brush evenly over chicken. Sprinkle chicken with pepper and remaining salt. Dip chicken, one piece at a time, in breadcrumb mixture and press gently to adhere thin coating. Place chicken on rack in greased jelly roll pan. Bake in 400 degree oven about 40 minutes or until chicken is crisp and brown and fork can be inserted with ease. Serves 4.

 Pare the horseradish root, cut into ½ -inch cubes. In a blender, place a handful of horseradish cubes and ¼ cup vinegar. Process until grated, not pulp. When first batch is grated, pour it through a strainer over a bowl. Return the liquid to the blender and process the remainder of horseradish using the same procedure.

Combine grated horseradish with enough of the vinegar solution to moisten. Add a pinch of salt and a pinch of sugar to each ½ cup grating and liquid.

Sugar is not a sweetener but a flavor-smoother. Store in tightly-covered glass jar in the refrigerator.

Horseradish Spread

1 cup cream cheese, room temperature
 3 tablespoons prepared horseradish
 Add horseradish to cream cheese and mix thoroughly. Refrigerate overnight in covered container. Add more horseradish, if desired.

Mixture will keep several weeks if tightly covered and stored in the refrigerator.

Horseradish Sauce

½ cup chilled whipping cream
 3 tablespoons well-drained prepared horseradish
 ½ teaspoon salt
 Beat whipping cream until stiff. Fold in horseradish and salt. Makes 1 cup. Variation: add 1 tablespoon prepared mustard.

Horseradish With Beets

¾ cup grated horseradish prepared with ¼ cup red wine vinegar or cider vinegar
 2 medium beets, cooked, skinned, finely grated to make 1 cup
 1 teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon sugar
 Additional red wine vinegar, if desired
 Mix grated horseradish, grated beets, salt and sugar thoroughly. Taste and add more vinegar, if desired. Place in a glass jar and place in refrigerator for several hours before serving.
 Before serving the horseradish, stir and taste. Add more salt, sugar or vinegar, if desired. Refrigerate in covered container and mixture will last several weeks.

Cocktail Sauce

1 12-ounce bottle chili sauce
 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 Dash pepper
 Mix together all ingredients. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator.

Great Beginnings For Mothers-To-Be

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Whether you're a mother-to-be or a new parent, you can always use helpful information when it comes to having a healthy baby.

Dairy Council, Inc. (DCI) offers two informational pieces that address the issues of pregnancy and feeding a child up to the age of two years.

"Great Beginnings," a 12-month calendar for mothers-to-be, answers common questions such as "What should I eat?", "How much weight can I gain?", and "Is it all right to exercise?"

The colorful calendar pages provide space to note doctors' appointments, baby showers, checklists for preparing for the baby, and observations of the baby's first few months.

Monthly nutrition tips provide sound guidelines for expectant mothers, including the importance of getting enough calcium, iron, folic acid, and protein in the diet for the mother's health as well as for the baby's.

Each calendar page includes information on the baby's growth to help expectant mothers visualize the child's development over nine months. Helpful hints for coping with possible pregnancy side effects such as nausea, heartburn, and constipation are provided.

When the baby is born, the calendar provides information on breast feeding and bottle feeding, dietary requirements for nursing mothers, and suggestions on how to re-establish prepregnancy weight.

"Airplane, Choo-Choo & Other Games Parents Play" is a brochure which addresses nutritional concerns of parents for their children under 2 years of age.

The colorful, 16-page pamphlet explains the nutritional needs of babies and toddlers from birth to 24 months and gives suggestions on how to meet those needs.

The booklet includes the most up-to-date nutritional recommendations, including when to add whole milk to the baby's diet.

Tips on serving sizes, food preparation, feeding while traveling, storing baby foods, and incorporating nutritious snacks are also addressed.

If you would like to receive DCI's "Great Beginnings" and "Airplane, Choo-Choo and Other Games..." provide an index card with your name and address to be used as a mailing label along with $2.35 to Attention: Great Beginnings, Dairy Council, Inc., 1225 Industrial Highway, Southampton, PA 18966.

What To Do If You Find A Stray Has Adopted You

While spring and summer offer people and pets more time outdoors, it's also a time when more animals stray away from their homes, or are abandoned by their owners.

The sight of a stray animal can trigger the desire to feed and care for the animal. However, because a stray dog may be very frightened, it is important not to approach the unfamiliar animal.

The American Humane Association and Homeless Homer, who represents homeless dogs everywhere, suggest the following steps be taken to help a stray:

1. See if the dog has identification tags with the owner's phone number.
2. If the dog has a license tag, call the city or county where the tag was issued for the owner's number.
3. Call your local animal control office immediately.
4. Call the local humane association or animal shelter to see if anyone has reported a lost animal.
5. Ask your mailman and neighbors if the animal is familiar.
6. Check the ads under lost pets or place your own in local newspapers. Put up signs on community bulletin boards.

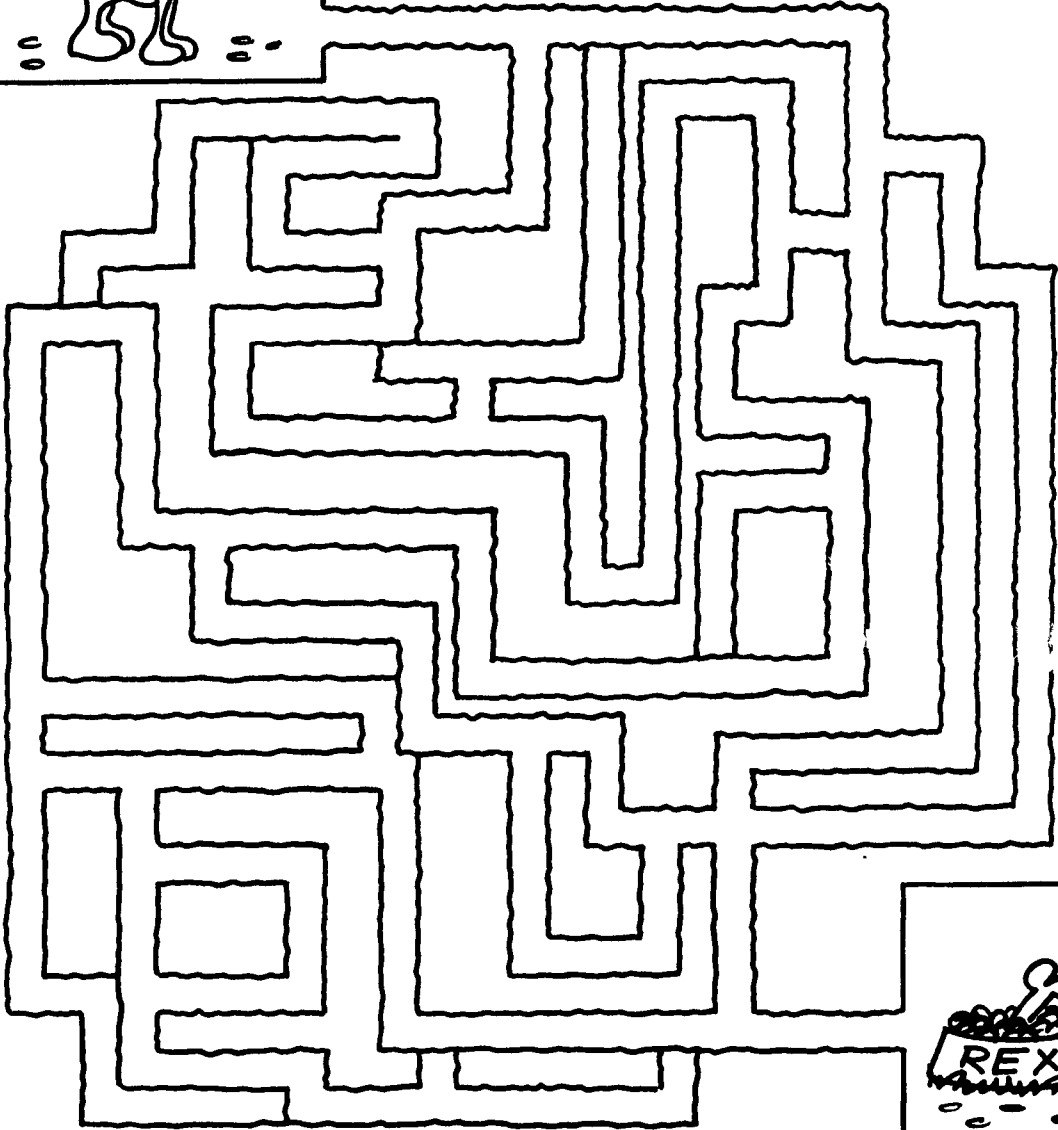

7. To reduce the number of stray animals, adopt a pet from an animal shelter. They have many homeless animals who are seeking happy, loving homes.

Unfortunately, most strays end up being the responsibility of community animal shelters. Homeless Homer reminds pet owners that they can help homeless dogs in animal shelters by participating in a program endorsed by the American Humane Association. It's called the Gaines/Ken-L Ration Shelter Cash-In Plan (SCIP). Shelters receive cash for the redemption symbols found on all Gaines and Ken-L Ration products and treats including Cycle, Gravy Train, Kibbles 'n Bits and Ken-L Ration. The shelter receives 20 cents from every redemption symbol found on Gaines and Ken-L Ration dry or soft/moist packages and 2 cents for every redemption symbol on can and treat packages. Homeless Homer is the official "spokesdog" for SCIP.

To find out more about the Gaines/Ken-L Ration Shelter Cash-In Plan and a participating shelter near you call 1-800-842-4637.

Sweet Corn For The Home Gardener

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The three types of sweet corn commonly planted include:

1. Normal sugary kernels contain moderate but varying degrees of sugar, depending on the variety. The sugars convert to starch rapidly after harvest. This type of sweet corn has the "traditional" corn flavor and germinates best when soil temperatures are between 55 degrees F and 60 degrees F.

2. Sugary Enhanced sweet corn has a gene, when present, that modifies the normal sugary (su) gene. When this happens, the result is increased tenderness and, to a certain degree, the sweetness of the sweet corn. The conversion of sugar to starch after harvest is slowed. No isolation from "normal" sweet corn is necessary when planting an (Se) sweet corn. A soil temperature of between 55 degree F to 60 degrees F will help in the germination of sugary enhanced (Se) sweet corn seed.

3. Shrunken (sh2) sweet corn seed is characterized by the shrunken or dry or wrinkled appearance of the seed. The gene involved in this type of sweet corn creates greatly heightened levels of sweetness in the corn and promotes a slow conversion of the kernel sugar (sucrose) to simpler sugar (such as fructose) after harvest. The common name for this type of sweet corn is "Super Sweet" sweet corn.

Cross-pollination between a "super sweet" and a "normal" or "sugary enhanced" sweet corn variety will result in tough, starchy kernels in both types. The seed of shrunken-type (sh2) sweet corn must be handled very carefully because this type of seed tends to be very brittle and can "fracture" or break-apart very easily if it is handled roughly. Broken or "fractured" sweet corn seed will not germinate and the total number of sweet corn plants in the field or garden will be drastically reduced.

Shrunken-type (sh2) sweet corns germinate best when the soil temperature is between 65 degree F and 70 degree F. Shrunken-type (sh2) sweet corns must be isolated from other types of sweet corn in order to protect their unique "super sweet" qualities. Try to separate this type of sweet corn from other sweet corns by maintaining a 10 to 14 day variety maturity difference or by maintaining a barrier of at least 500 feet between unlike sweet corns.

Sweet corn plants like a well-drained fertile soil with a pH range of 6.0 to 6.8. Sweet corn seed should not be planted too deep about 1 to 1 ½ inches is fine. The use of a good starter fertilizer like 5-10-5 or 8-24-8 is also recommended.

For additional information about growing sweet corn please contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service by dialing 253-5970, extension 239.

Boiled Apple Dumplings

Roll out a large sheet of pie dough, rather thick, and cut in pieces large enough to cover an apple. Pare and core the apple without cutting in pieces. Fill the inside hole with brown sugar with a little lemon juice. Put one apple in a piece of dough and seal it.

Dust them thickly with flour and put them in a pot of boiling water. Boil until the apples are soft when pierced with a fork. Serve warm with cream or a sweet sauce.

York Farm Women Society 26 Visits Ephrata Cloister

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — If you are searching for a day trip, you might want to do what the Farm Women Society 26 of York County did. They celebrated their club's 25th anniversary with a visit to the Ephrata Cloister.

The trip provided a glimpse into the 18th century life of a religious commune.

While the members examined

the 15-inch board that was used for a bed and its accompanying wooden pillow, one woman remarked, "I can see why the group died out."

The purpose of the austere lifestyle of the Cloisters was to teach its members self-denial in order to get closer to God.

Founded by Conrad Beissel in 1732, the commune consisted of three orders, a brotherhood and a sisterhood that practiced celibacy, and a married order of householders.

Strict rules, little sleep, and bland food permeated the commune.

The medieval-style buildings had low door openings that forced members to stoop whenever they walked through them. This was to remind them to be humble.

At its peak of popularity, the radical religious community had 300 members. The celibate orders lived on the grounds and worked at farming, basketmaking, papermaking, printing, bookmaking, carpentry, and milling.

Beissel believed that music was necessary for a pious lifestyle. Members wrote music and followed strict dietary rules to purify their voices. Music was sang in five parts that included an unusual falsetto.

Education was important to the religious commune. In 1740, the

Cloister community founded a school, which was later used as a public school. In 1743, the commune began printing numerous tracts, books and other literature. The Cloister printing press is best known for printing the largest book ever printed in colonial America. The book, Martyrs Mirror, has 1,200 pages and tells the stories of Anabaptists martyred for their faith.

Convinced that it was necessary to show charity to others, the Cloister provided free lodging and food to travelers. They also nursed 500 wounded soldiers during the Revolutionary war.

Beissel died in 1768. Few remained interested in a life of self denial and celibacy and by 1800 the few remaining members incorporated with the Seventh Day German Baptist Church that used the buildings until 1934.

In 1941, The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission assumed administration and restored it as an important historic site.

Thoroughly Conditioned

The Gehl 2140/2170 mower conditioners will thoroughly condition your hay. These pull-type mower conditioners are built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls, for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. See your Gehl dealer today on how the 2140, with a 7 ft. cutting width, and the 2170 with a 9 ft. 3 in. cutting width, will fit into your haymaking operation.

Simple Design.....Easy Operation

If you're looking for extra-easy operation, the Gehl Models 1310 and 1710 fixed chamber round balers can't be beat. No other balers are as easy to operate. The pickup feeds material directly into the baling chamber, so these balers easily handle all crops and conditions. Incoming material gently tumbles inside the chamber, gradually forming the bale. The operator simply keeps an eye on the pressure gauge; when it reaches the factory recommended psi the bale is complete. Stop by your Gehl dealer today for more information on these easy-to-operate balers from Gehl.

TDC Round Balers Only From Gehl

TDC® —Total Density Control, is a patented "air-draulic" bale density system exclusively on Gehl round balers. This remarkably simple system allows you to vary bale density and core size to adapt to changing crop conditions — giving you the flexibility you need to make quality round bales. Both the 1870 and 1470 feature texturized belts, constant velocity driveline, and the optional manual or Auto-Electric Twine-wrap.

Pasteurized Eggs, Marinated Turkey Slices Soon On Shelves

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Two poultry industry representatives were in town last week to talk to local home economists about new turkey and egg products. They also spoke about the importance of food preparation and safety.

What more than 50 home economists from the Lancaster-Lebanon IU-13 Unit found was that the industry is striving hard to meet demands for leaner, more tasty, and easier to prepare products — all the while ensuring that food is safe to eat.

A new retail pasteurized table ready egg product, containing four whole eggs and available in an 8-ounce container, was introduced by John Brommer, Papetti's Hygrade Egg Products, Inc.

The product, also available in a 16-ounce package, will be on the shelves in about six weeks. The product is made from whole shell eggs and has a shelf life of 10 weeks.

Liquid eggs

Brommer showed the refrigerated liquid eggs available in larger containers for institutional use. One, a "Bag-In-The-Box," is borrowed from techniques used to pour milk, with a spout that can easily dispense the product.

"This is the package Burger King buys," said Brommer. The package was dated May 7 and expires July 15. The liquid product, pasteurized under pressure at 135-140 degrees Fahrenheit for 3.5 minutes, must be kept refrigerated.

"Burger King, most colleges, almost all major chains have gone to this product," said Brommer. The company has made sure the product, available in the 20-pound box, and the packaging is "biologically sound."

Brommer said, "This is taking over as the industry standard, where five-pounders once were."

On shelves

The retail product, recently introduced, "is our baby," said Brommer. "It took forever to get it. It will be on the shelves shortly. We've signed some marketing agreements . . . within the next 4-8 weeks you're going to see it locally on shelves."

The product is also microwavable.

Brommer spoke about other Papetti products, including the no-cholesterol egg product. The Papetti brand is 99 percent egg whites, called "Healthy Mom."

"As an egg person speaking to a Lancaster Co. group, look at our product — it is 99 percent egg white. Others' products are about 75 percent egg whites, some oils, and some other things thrown in there," he said. "They may have a little more texture and a little more flavor, but it is not as good for you."

Brommer said, "We will not survive without shell eggs. We invented these products because there was a need for safety, there was a great deal of concern how we were going to feed the masses. This is practical and acceptable."

Turkey products

Richard D. Carson, vice president of Human Resources of Round Hill Foods, Inc., spoke about new turkey products and how important it is for the packager and preparer to be concerned about food safety.

"We need to do everything possible to make sure that every person who puts a piece of Round Hill Turkey product in their mouth, do so, hopefully enjoy the taste, but definitely do not get ill from anything we've done with the product," said Carson. "Biosecurity, from the growing of the turkeys until the consumer prepares the product properly, let me stress that, prepares the product properly, we in the food industry, particularly poultry, need to be very mindful as to all the quality that we have processed into the product."

Round Hill has recently launched a new line of marinated products. These include portion-prepared raw turkey breast slices.

"We used to call them turkey sticks," said Carson, "but that gets into funny labeling issues. They're premarinated."

Deli products

The company has developed a full line of deli products.

"In America, deli turkey products are the fastest growing portion of our industry," he said. "How many of you enjoy turkey hoagies or subs or whatever you want to call them? Delis have been a great asset to our industry."

Sodium is also a concern. Round Hill is trying to find ways to "prepare a good deli breast meat product that is tender, has some flavor, but is very low in sodium. Or, even better yet, has no sodium," he said.

The company is working on a "no salt" product that will "bind together, look good, have a good texture, and also have flavor," said Carson.

Fresh product

Round Hill is emphasized fresh product marketing, with items in the fresh meat case and fresh deli case. "Where we are headed is into the fresh as well as the prepared, precooked foods," he said.

Carson said that, these days, very few people spend more than a half an hour in meal preparation. The challenge for the industry is "to have products that are there for the meat preparer."

Other products under investigation include turkey nuggets that won't dry out as easily and work on developing better turkey breast meat, in addition to a pre-seasoned, balanced turkey burger "that will be moist and yet have flavor to it."

Meet The Pennsylvania Poultry Queen From Peepytown Road

LOU ANN GOOD

EAST BERLIN (Adams Co.) — Peepytown Road is home for the 1990-91 Pennsylvania Poultry Queen.

Actually, it's the second time in poultry history that the queen has resided alongside Peepytown Road.

Although it's questionable that the address spurred current Queen Kristi Mummert and her sister, Kelly, who reigned in 1982-83, to seek the title, the address is appropriate, for 3,000 poult keep things peeping on the Mummert farm.

Ever since Kristi's dad, Wayne, can remember, turkeys have lived on the Mummert farm that has been in the family for more than 100 years. Although the turkeys have been raised in the same building for several generations, there has been a lot of changes. The Mummerts no longer hatch the turkey eggs. Instead, the turkeys are five to 24 hours old when they arrive at the Mummert farm. Previously, the family had to trim the turkey beaks individually. Now the turkeys have been debeaked with a laser before they arrive at the Mummert's farm.

One of the biggest differences is that the family no longer dresses and sells the turkeys privately.

Kristi's mother said, "We used to dress 1,000 turkeys during the Thanksgiving season. Then we had the weather to contend with. We also dreaded a big snow, for fear we would not be able to deliver the orders, but as far as I can remember, we always got the turkeys delivered."

Now, when the turkeys are 17 weeks old, both hens and Toms are sold to Round Hill, a turkey packaging firm.

Changes in turkey diets breed a leaner and more tender bird.

"Formerly, turkeys were fed six months before being sold. Now it only takes 17 weeks to raise them to the same size," Wayne said.

Kristi's job is to see the turkeys have water and feed and to check them several times a day to prevent crowding.

"Turkeys crowd and can suffocate when they are frightened," Kristi said. One year, after the neighbors set off fireworks, the frightened turkeys huddled together and 50 died before they were discovered.

Kristi also helps load the turkeys on the trucks when they are sold to Round Hill.

"A small operation like we have is not financially lucrative," Wayne said. "It's almost more headaches than it is worth."

Although the Mummerts considered going into the turkey business in a big way, they opted to continue their tradition of raising the turkeys along with 800 hogs, 80 steers, and farming the 250-acres.

The Adams County farm has three separate groupings of farm buildings and houses. Kristi's grandparents live in the one house, the hired man and his family live in the other, and the one house is presently empty although the farm buildings are still used. Kristi's family lives in a new home that they build on the farm.

The stone and red-painted barns on the property are well kept and the grounds are neatly trimmed.

Kristi is now completing her second year as the Adams County Poultry Queen and her first year as the state queen.

Kristi's is the first poultry queen that Adams County has extended the reign to a two-year term. According to Kristi the change was made because Lancaster and Adams Counties take turns having their queens serve as state queens. The committee believes that the state queen is better prepared if she first serves as county queen.

While Kristi has thoroughly researched the nutritional and economical value and versatility of eggs, she finds that nutritional information makes little impact with her peers. "They eat anything. If they like it, nothing really bothers them."

The older generation is different. They are more concerned with the facts and nutritional value of eggs and poultry products.

As a 4-H'er for 10 years, Kristi accumulated many awards. Her highest was a state win in poultry judging that sent her to Kentucky for national competition. Her team placed ninth in the Avian Bowl for answering tough questions about the poultry industry.

Kristi said, "The questions are really difficult because they aren't things one normally knows without reading and studying poultry books and magazines a lot."

The 18 year old just completed her first year of college at the Penn State Altoona campus where she is majoring in business administration.

Kristi's term will be finished in August. Until then, she plans to enjoy interacting with the persons she meets through her promotional activities and to eat a lot of turkey. Some of the Mummerts' favorite recipes include the following.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND TURKEY HAM

6 potatoes
1 pound cubed turkey ham
½ small onion
2 tablespoons margarine
2½ cups milk
4 teaspoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Slice potatoes and layer in casserole with turkey ham and onion. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over potato and ham layers. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

TURKEY ON THE GRILL

Using a turkey that has been completely thawed and seasoned with salt and pepper on inside and out. Place on a baking pan placed on one burner of a double burner grill. The burner under the turkey is not lighted. Close the lid but do not cover the turkey. Set the burner so that a temperature of about 325 to 350 degrees is reached for 4 to 6 hours depending on size of turkey. Meat thermometer in the thickest part of the breast should register 170 to 180 degrees when finished.

CREAMY TURKEY LASAGNA

8-ounces lasagna
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 cup sour cream
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup sliced ripe olives, optional
¼ cup pimento
½ teaspoon garlic salt
2 to 3 cups diced cooked turkey
2 cups shredded white cheese
Cook lasagna as directed on package, drain. Meanwhile, blend soups, parmesan cheese, sour cream, onion, olives, pimento and garlic salt, stir in turkey. Spread ¼ turkey mixture over bottom of 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Alternate three layers of lasagna, turkey mixture, and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before cutting. Serves 8.

EDELWEISS QUICHE

9-inch unbaked pie shell, at room temperature
2 cups chopped cooked turkey
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese
4 eggs
1 cup half and half or milk
½ cup chicken broth or water
1½ tablespoons instant minced onion
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
Sprinkle pie shell with chicken and cheese. Beat together remaining ingredients until combined; pour over chicken and cheese. Bake in 375 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until knife inserted comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

Pennsylvania Poultry Queen Kristi Mummert holds a poult. Kristi's parents, Wayne and Shirley, raise 3,000 turkeys, which gave Kristi the ticket to run for the poultry queen position.

ANGUS TOPICS

Some of the things I see today make me worry about tomorrow... — such as living life on fast forward.

• Nobody has time to do anything because they're too busy doing everything.

When was the last time you went for a Sunday drive and had no ultimate destination? When was the last time you spent an evening looking at Christmas lights? When was the last time you had fun putting up Christmas lights, or, like everything else which at one time brought pleasure, is it just one more motion you go through and then say, "Well it's done."

One day, too late, I fear, we'll wake up to find we did it all, only we're too tired to remember any of it.

— such as children who don't know how to play.

• Adults have structured child's play to the extent children no longer know how to initiate play on their own. You only need to look at the summer ball league to see the truth in this. Adults make the rules, teach the rules, enforce the rules and nearly play out the rules when given half the chance. And it is beginning at younger and younger ages.

Give kids a ball and a bat and say go play, and they just stare at you. They have lost (or have never been taught) the skills necessary to work out the details of a game along. They don't even know where to begin without someone orchestrating the whole thing.

Instead, they give up and go tell their folks they're bored. Parents, living out that "too busy doing everything" scheme either just do it for them, or buy them toys that provide ready made rules, nintendos, computers, video games.

— such as young people who lack respect for work.

• Young people used to work for the necessities; now they work for the extras.

The incentive to go to work daily and work your best while there is missing in today's youth force because, for most, the job provides little more than "play" money. Parents have already bought the car, paid the insurance, financed schooling, and given an allowance, so why work? Few children would find things much different if they didn't have the job.

In fact, when Ernie's children were in high school, I discovered few of their friends were required to do any family chores, such as mowing, housecleaning or laundry. Those busy-beaver parents were doing them, instead.

— such as the decline of literature.

• Any dose of literature has to be camouflaged as a mini-series, put on a t-shirt, reduce to a 30-minute cassette or turned into a video game. Though I know some exposure is better than none, "the Bible on cassette" just doesn't seem the way it was intended to be absorbed.

"Man is flying too fast for a world that is round. Soon he will catch up with himself in a great rear-end collision and Man will never know that what hit him from behind was Man."

James Thurber wrote that...I read it...in a book.

In addition to farming in Illinois, Judy Bingman and her husband, Ernest, publish and edit ANGUS TOPICS, a monthly magazine.

As Pennsylvania Poultry Queen, Kristi encourages people to use poultry products in their daily menu.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp.

Summer officially arrived last week.

Yes, the calendar is still on May. And yes, big yellow school busses still haul their passengers to classes each weekday morning. And no, we haven't baled a single bale of hay yet.

But, at our house, summer has officially arrived.

When the window screens are called up for service in our naturally cool farmhouse, we figure summer is here — regardless of the date. And, last week brought that welcome annual opening.

Shoving the storm windows up into their out-of-way warm weather position and replacing them with screened fresh-air flow is like marrying the outdoors. Suddenly the barriers of walls are breached and the inside and out become one.

From early dawn to sometimes well after dark, the farm and house are surrounded by birdsongs. They begin with wake-up twitterings at daybreak, growing in intensity as more and more of our feathered residents chirp in.

Just beyond the screens, the ever-present house sparrows and finches broadcast a continuous background chorus, with frequent vocal soloists jumping in. Enthusiastic robins add their clear, sweet trills from the tip-tops of the maples. A cardinal chip-chips from the forsythia under the kitchen window. Doves coo from the willows and a pair of blue jays raising babies nearby screech and scream at the cats as they flit from feeder to pine tree to pussywillow.

And the mockingbird claims his favorite perch, the electric wire where it hooks to the transformer at the top of a high pole outside the dairy barn. Mockingbirds must have endless depths of entertainment energy. This one was still vocalizing at midnight the first evening it was warm enough to keep the windows open. Sort of a birdlover's lullaby.

While dusk quiets most of the birdsongs, it prods a reverse action from our plentiful frog population. Chubby, well-fed bullfrogs puff out their yellow throats to call "garummmmp" in deep-bass voices. Peepers jump into the cacaphony at darkness, adding their high-pitched sopranos one by one.

When a breeze starts to pick up after dark, screens provide an instant alert from the stirring of the Cape Cod curtains at the windows. That movement often signals changing weather, the beginning of a front passing through or a storm edging closer.

Through the screens, we can hear the distant rumblings of thunder and the rustling of the leaves as approaching storms pick up momentum. Gentle raindrops lightly patter against the leaves, then swell in sound with increasing volume and speed. Storm intensity sometimes forces the closing of the windows, shutting out the drama of wind and rain and clapping thunder as we wrap ourselves in a sheltering cocoon of old logs and brick.

Screened summer living brings the welcome roar of returning field equipment, even as it descends the distant hill a half-mile away. It invites in the sound of children playing in the neighborhood nearby, of motorcycles revving up and lawn mowers busy grooming grass.

Sounds of after-dark tomcat fights, a heifer bellowing in heat, the hum of eighteen-wheelers on the interstate and crackling holiday fireworks float in to enhance our imaginations and hint at happenings 'round about. Far less welcome is to hear from the darkness beyond the screens the maddening echoes of cow hoofbeats tap-dancing down the paved road past the house.

Putting down the screens is a lot like having the sound restored to a television or movie screen showing only the pictures. Mother Nature without the accompanying sound effects just isn't the same.

Inevitably, we'll experience a few sweltering, hot, humid nights when the cool confinement of air conditioning would be most welcome.

Most of the time, though, we're perfectly content with our screens — and summer's accompanying mood music played on the environment's sound track.

WEST FRIENDSHIP (Maryland) — Novice entrants carted off two of the top three placings in the Grand Lamb Cook-Off, a highlight of the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival held May 4-5 at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

And, the top two cooks in the annual lamb cook-off not only serve up winning lamb dishes, they raise and care for their own flocks as well.

Cook-off winner Michelle Humphries lugged recipes, ingredients and her favorite crockpot on a 11 hour-plus drive from her farm in Campbellcroft, Ontario, Canada. Her "Rosemary and Mint Lamb Stew in Cream Sauce," beautifully presented on glossy black serving dishes, snagged the highest points and a $150 cash prize from the contest's trio of judges.

Michelle claims she taught herself to cook during a three-year stay in Australia. Lamb dishes are highly popular "down under," and her winning recipe was an adaption of a family favorite from there.

The Humphries tend a flock of 50 ewes, including Karakul, known for their "persian lamb" fleeces, registered Oxfords, English Leicesters and mixed colored breeds. Michelle decided to enter the cook-off after helping friends exhibit sheep during last year's festival.

Anne Marie Meyer, Pennsylvania's only finalist in the cook-off, earned second-place honors with her "Work-Week Lamb Chops," marinated in soy sauce and a blend of herbs and spices and panbroiled. The lamb chops, which can be marinated well ahead of time and cooked in just a few minutes, is a favorite method for serving their home-raised lamb.

Meyer and her husband Ray tend a flock of 40 ewes at their Seven Valleys R2 farm. They raise and sell commercial and youth project market lambs and breeding stock. Anne is a soils technician in York County for the Soil Conservation Service.

Taking the third-place award was contest veteran Richard Douville of Columbia, preparing an oriental-style dish, "Chinese Hunan Lamb."

Douville, who began cooking at age 22 in "self-defense," and who does all his family's food preparation, first tasted a version of his winning recipe in a restaurant. A lamb cookoff competitor for the past five years, he has won several high-placing awards.

Fourth place went to Beth Hines, a sheep producer from Elyria, Ohio, who prepared "Easy India Curry."

Sue Atkinson, a Baltimore nurse, claimed the fifth-place spot with a favorite from her Hindu heritage, "Curried Lamb."

Contestants were point-scored in four categories — taste, 40 points, appearance, originality and ease of preparation, 20 points each — and ranked on combined point totals, according to cook-off chairman Sharon Pilson, Thurmont.

Judges for the contest were Robert Dinsmore, Jefferson, who raises Hampshires; Karen Hevner, a Frederick County 4-H leader for cooking and nutrition projects and whose son raises lambs; and Sandy Corridon, Frederick County extension home economist.

Other featured events at the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival included shearing demonstrations and competition, sheep dog herding, spinning seminars and demonstrations and type judging of some 900 head.

Rosemary and Mint Lamb Stew in Cream Sauce

*A variety of cuts of lamb may be used for this recipe. Prefer upper leg roast. 8 meaty good sized chops, leg roast, chump, forequarter, or loin cuts. Approximately 3 lbs. of meat.

1 cup hot water
1 beef cube
1 ounce butter
¼ cup dry white wine
1 clove garlic minced
2 teaspoons flour
1 tablespoon French mustard (prepared)
3 tablespoons heavy or thickened cream
2 tablespoons rosemary (dry)
1 teaspoon parsley (dry)
¼ of a bottle mint sauce (about ⅓ of a cup)
2 tablespoons mint jelly
Salt and pepper to taste

*Extra dry mint leaves may be added for extra flavor. Trim off fat and de-bone the meat then cube. (Save the marrow bones). In a fry pan, add oil and lightly brown the meat. Remove from the heat. In a deep casserole dish, dissolve beef cube in hot water and add the remaining ingredients and combine well.

Add meat and its juices and any marrow from the bones (discard the bones) to the casserole dish. Cover and let marinate as long as possible, at least 2 hours.

Bake covered for 40 minutes at 350 F (180 C). If sauce is not thickening after 20 minutes add a bit more flour dissolved in some of the casserole juices. The sauce should be smooth but not super thick.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK™

Festival Holds Lamb Cook Off

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 25, 1991-B23

Work-Week Lamb Chops

A quick, easy way to serve a delicious meal that will taste like it came from the finest restaurant.

- 8 lamb chops: ½" thick
- 3 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 teaspoons thyme, dried
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Before you leave for work, or ¼ - 1 hour before cooking:

Arrange lamb chops in a shallow casserole dish. Sprinkle with soy sauce, garlic powder, thyme, salt and pepper. If early in the day, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. Do not need to refrigerate if you cook within ½ an hour).

To Cook:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter on medium high heat in a non-stick frypan. Sprinkle into melted butter: soy sauce, thyme, and garlic powder. Add lamb chops and fry to desired doneness. Approximately 5 minutes per side for medium done.

Easy India Curry

- ¼ cup butter or ghee
- 2 cups leftover cooked lamb (I used leg of lamb)
- 3 medium grated carrots
- ¼ cup raisins (1 cup if you like them)
- 2 cups quick cooking rice
- 2 cups water
- 2 teaspoons curry powder*

Cut lamb into strips 1 inch long. Marinate lamb in teriyaki sauce over night. Drain off marinate. Melt butter in skillet. Stir-fry carrots, raisins, lamb and curry powder for about 3-4 minutes. Add water and rice. Boil, stir and cover pan. Turn off heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Stir and serve. Serves 4-6.

*For a less spicy taste use 1 teaspoon of curry powder.

Skim Milk Stops Plant Viruses

Peter Ferretti and Michael Orzolek, Penn State Vegetable Production Specialists, report that sterilized skim milk is being used successfully by Dutch pepper growers to stop the spread of paprika mosaic virus (PMV) — leading researchers to believe it may be effective against other plant viruses as well.

PMV poses a serious threat to sweet pepper growers because it spreads easily from plant to plant during pruning or harvesting. But growers have found that if knives are dipped in sterilized skim milk before pruning or harvesting, the virus is prevented from infecting neighboring plants.

The virus is apparently encapsulated by milk protein and becomes unable to spread further. Skim milk is better than whole milk simply because it has a higher protein content. Although the exact mechanism of the "skim milk effect" is not known, it's theorized that the milk protein coating somehow holds the DNA inside the virus, preventing it from entering and infecting the plant cells. It's probable that milk protein will have a similar disinfecting effect on other plant viruses, such as tobacco mosaic virus.

SPRING...THE SEASON FOR ASPARAGUS!

Fresh asparagus can be found throughout the year. However spring ushers in a much larger supply and generally better prices and quality. Shipped asparagus has been in our local produce markets for several weeks, and now locally grown asparagus is available in home asparagus beds and in our local markets and supermarkets.

Once picked, asparagus loses quality rapidly. If you have your own bed of asparagus, harvest just before eating. If that is impossible or if you have to buy asparagus you need to take special storage precautions. Think of the asparagus spears as flowers, and treat them exactly the same way, removing the very end of the stalks and storing them upright in an inch of water. This way they absorb moisture through their stems and stay fresh.

While some people have a definite preference for stalk thickness, there is little difference in tenderness between thick and thin spears. However, the size selected should be uniform in size to enhance even cooking.

When purchasing asparagus, select firm stalks that are green almost their entire length with closed compact tips. Choose a market that displays their spears stored upright in shallow water. At home, trim the bottom of each spear one-fourth inch. If you cannot store them upright in water as suggested above, wrap a moist paper towel around the stalk ends, then place in a plastic bag. Use within two to three days for best quality.

Four spears of asparagus have only 15 calories. Asparagus is an excellent source of vitamin A. It also supplies fiber, vitamin C, potassium, and many other nutrients. It is free of fat, sodium, and cholesterol.

When I was growing up, we ate just the portions that snapped off easily and threw the remainder of the asparagus away. It wasn't until I learned the peeling technique that I realized how wasteful we had been. Peeling asparagus provides you with almost 50 percent additional edible flesh. You will be amazed at the quantity of tender flesh hidden underneath the tough white and purple exterior.

A small, sharp paring knife works better than a vegetable peeler, because it allows maximum control. Insert the knife under the thicker skin at the base, and work it up toward the tip, making the cut shallower as the skin becomes thinner. About two to three inches from the bottom, the peel tapers off completely.

My favorite method of preparing asparagus is to blanch or boil it. This method works equally well with whole spears or pieces. Take a pan wide enough to hold the asparagus spears if cooking whole spears. Fill it three-fourths full with water and bring the water to the boiling point. Place the spears or pieces into the water and partially cover the pan until the water returns to boiling. Reduce the heat, uncover the pan so the asparagus will remain green and cook for four minutes. Then, begin testing for tenderness by piercing a spear with a sharp knife point. The asparagus is done as soon as the knife easily pierces the spear. Do not overcook! The spears should retain their crunch and texture.

To microwave: Place one pound fresh asparagus in a microwave-safe dish. Add ¼ cup water, cover and cook on high power, six to eight minutes, or until tender-crisp.

Stir-frying: Cut into one-inch diagonal slices. Heat one tablespoon vegetable oil in large skillet or wok, and saute up to five cups of asparagus slices for one minute. Add one to two tablespoons liquid, cover and cook about two more minutes or until tender-crisp.

Why not enjoy fresh asparagus often while it is in season during the coming weeks!

Cattlemen's Association Will Hold Field Day

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, will be hosting its fourth annual summer field trip on Saturday, July 20, said committee chairman Paul Holcombe. This year's trip will be a one-day bus tour to central Pennsylvania cattle farms.

"These trips have become one of the highlights of the Association," said Holcombe. "Our first trip took us to southeastern Pennsylvania and included a visit to New Bolton Farm and Genetics Unlimited. This successful event was followed the next year with a fun-and information-filled trip to York County cattle operation. The next year found us traveling to the Adams County farm owned by Ray Grimes, where the state cattlemen's summer field day was hosted. And last year we included an over-night tour to Virginia cattle country, a major milestone in our tour history."

This year, said Holcombe, we decided to accept an invitation to tour some of our central Pennsylvania cattle producers' farms. Our first stop will be Susquehannock Farm, a Polled Hereford seedstock operation owned by Fred and Doreen McMurry of Sunbury. Dr. McMurry has a keen interest in breeding beef cattle and has applied his interest in genetics to produce Polled Herefords that have performed well at the Pennsylvania Meat Animal Evaluation Center and in the showing. Susquehannock Farm has consigned calves to the annual Dutch Country Calf Sale, also sponsored by the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association.

Following the morning visit to Susquehannock Farm, the tour will stop at a nearby feeding operation run by Stanley Crone of R.D. 6 Danville. Crone feeds roughly 800 head of beef cattle annually.

From Danville, the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association will be traveling west to State College to visit the farm owned by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Seedstock Producer of 1991, Dr. Gerald and Sue Clair. Clair breeds red and black Salers, along with Suffolk sheep and Hampshire hogs at Lyn Lee Farm, located in Centre County.

The tour's last stop will be Happy Hills Farm at Huntingdon. Roger and Grace Meinhardt raise Texas Longhorns and fullblood Salers on their two farms, totaling 500 acres.

Rounding out the day's events will be a beef dinner on the return trip to the Berks County Ag Center. The tour will leave from the Ag Center's parking lot at 7 a.m. and will return mid-evening. Participants should bring their own lunch. A noontime stop at a picnic area and rest facility is planned.

The cost of the day's tour and evening meal is $35 per adult and $20 per child. Members of the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, including junior members, will receive a $5 discount on individual reservations. The deadline for reservations is June 15, 1991. Seating is limited.

For more information or to make reservations, contact Paul Holcombe at (215) 926-4388. Make checks payable to the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, R.D. 1 Box 135, Mohrsville, PA 19541.

Producer Health Screenings

DES MOINES, Iowa — With agriculture listed as the most dangerous occupation in the U.S., worker health and safety is a hot topic in the agriculture industry.

The Farm Health Center at World Pork Expo May 31-June 2 at the Iowa State Fairgrounds in Des Moines will give pork producers a convenient opportunity to have their overall health checked, as well as discuss questions or concerns they might have about their health.

The center, located in the cattle barn and sponsored by American Cyanamid Company and Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., will feature health screenings, exhibits, and safety equipment demonstrations.

The health screenings will be conducted by trained medical personnel who will test participants' cholesterol level, blood pressure, heart/lung capacity, and hearing. A skin cancer test directed by dermatologists, who specialize in skin cancer problems, will also be included in this year's screening process.

A minimal fee of $10 will be charged for the entire group of tests. A comparable series of tests would cost approximately $125-$150 in a doctor's office. The results of each individual's screening will be reviewed with them by a registered nurse specially trained in agricultural medicine before they leave the testing area.

An analysis of the overall results will be conducted and released by Dr. David Schwartz, director of occupational medicine at the University of Iowa, within two weeks following Expo. The analysis will include an interpretation of trends in producer health for different age groups, types of operations and types of preventive health practice employed.

Exhibits at the Farm Health Center will deal with topics such as general fitness/health practices, the identification and care of protective clothing, equipment modifications and farm safety procedures. A disposable, two-strap dust mask will be given to producers who go through the screening process and a brief mask education program.

Texas Will Host Polled Hereford Show

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — American Junior Polled Hereford Association members and their families from across the nation will be treated to some Texas-size hospitality when they converge on Abilene, Texas, July 13-18, for the 18th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum. The "Lone Star Extravaganza" promises to be another exciting junior breed-leading event, with more than 400 heifers, steers and cow-calf pairs expected to compete for $9,520 in premiums. Lining up the cattle in the July 17-18 competition will be lead judge Kevin Jensen of Courtland, Kan., and associate judge Dick DeMuth of Senatobia, Miss. In addition to the showcase of Polled Herefords, the Junior National annually offers youth an opportunity to partake in numerous AJPFA contests. Those highlighting the list include the competitive salesmanship competition, known as team marketing, the popular beef and breed quiz session, the beef bowl, the National Illustrated Speech Contest sponsored by the National Organization of Poll-ettes, and the national showmanship competition. New to the agenda this year is a leadership development program for both junior members and adults. The motivational session will be led by the agricultural ambassadors of Texas Tech University. Also on the agenda of leadership is the AJPFA's annual membership meeting and the election of six new AJPFA national directors, including the 1991-92 officer team. A Texas barbecue with all the trimmings, generously sponsored by the Abilene Convention & Visitors Bureau and local businesses, is planned for the annual awards banquet. This event will recognize team and individual contest winners and the recipient of the prestigious National Junior Merit Award. It will also feature the drawing for "Nicky," the AJPFA's scholarship fundraising heifer donated to the junior association by Mrs. M.P. Moore of Senatobia, Miss. All youth who own Polled Hereford cattle are invited to exhibit at the 18th Junior National. To be eligible, juniors must be at least 7 years old and under 21 years on Jan. 1, 1991, and members of the AJPFA. Ownership and entry deadlines for the show are June 1. For further information, contact Marilyn Emory or Karen Miller at the American Polled Hereford Association, 11020 NW Ambassador Drive, Kansas City, MO 64153-2034, (816) 891-8400.

HOW TO USE A POULTRY DIAGNOSTIC LABORATORY

A. G. Yersin
Assistant Professor
Poultry Science

Any successful poultry operation includes a disease control and biosecurity program. However, even with the best health management or preventive medicine program in place, a disease problem can occur.

When diseases occur, the implementation of a counterattack by the poultry producer may involve the use of a diagnostic facility or its personnel.

Here are some key points to consider in establishing a successful diagnosis:

- The accuracy of any diagnosis will be partially dependent on the amount and type of information available to the diagnostician. This information will come from the birds submitted for necropsy and the flock manager.

- Information from the flock manager should include pertinent aspects of the history of the present flock and past flock, such as present age of birds, approximate assessment of when problems began to occur, behavior of flock prior to outbreak, vaccination program, abrupt changes in management or environmental conditions, and present biosecurity program.

- Always submit a few live birds which represent the condition affecting the flock, not "cull" birds. The most recent mortalities may also be submitted. Decom- posed birds are of no value.

- Try to select birds that are exhibiting different stages of the disease to aid in the isolation of viral and bacterial agents.

- The number of birds to be submitted will vary with what is available but submission based on age is a good rule of thumb to follow. For example: select six to eight birds from flocks less than 3 weeks old, four to six birds from flocks 3 to 12 weeks old, and four birds from flocks older than 12 weeks of age.

- Transport live birds in well-ventilated containers of sufficient size to avoid crowding and/or suffocation.

- Transport dead birds in containers with dry ice or cool packs to avoid decomposition.

- Always call the laboratory ahead of time to allow for adequate preparation or scheduling in the event of time constraints. The keys to solving problems, particularly disease-associated, are utilization of available information, communication between personnel, and optimization of resources. Services provided by diagnostic laboratories are a critical element of successful management when problems occur and their output is best utilized with the proper input from the poultry producer.

Diagnostic facilities available across the state are listed below.

- Poultry Diagnostic Lab, Penn State University, University Park, PA (814) 863-0837.

- Poultry Diagnostic Lab, University of Pennsylvania, New Bolton Center, Kennett Square, PA (215) 444-4282.

- PDA-Summerdale Lab, (717) 787-8808.

- Dr. Wilson Miller, Rohrerstown, PA (717) 393-7016.

Gypsy Moths Are Here Again

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Gypsy moth caterpillars have hatched and are flying around making general nuisances of themselves.

You can find them on your house, laundry that is hung out to dry, trees, and just about everywhere else.

At this stage, the caterpillars put out a long thread and the wind carries them to a nice oak tree waiting to have its leaves eaten by the hungry caterpillars.

Many people suffer a reaction to the gypsy moth caterpillars that they mistake as bites. Gypsy moths do not bite, but the many tiny hairs on the caterpillar's body irritate the skin and cause dermatitis.

To help relieve the discomfort this causes, use a cream such as cortaid. The rash should not last long. If it does, contact your doctor.

The gypsy moth has been around a long time — more than 100 years in the northeastern United States. Their favorite food is leaves of oak (especially white and chestnut oak), alder, apple, aspen, basswood, birch, boxelder, hawthorn, larch, mountain-ash, spruce, witch-hazel, willow, apple, and sumac. Trees that are moderately favored include cherry, cottonwood, elm, hickory, maples, walnut, butternut, pear, and sweetgum. Tree species that are only eaten when larvae are in a starving condition are arborvitae, ash, balsam fir, catalpa, cedars, dogwood, horsechestnut, black locust, sycamore, and tulip-poplar.

It generally takes two or more years of defoliation from gypsy moth feeding for healthy trees to be killed. Trees that are under stress from drought or other disease or insect problem can be killed in one year.

It is important to remember that there is no method of entirely eliminating gypsy moth from the woods. Wholesale aerial spraying will not control the population.

The cooperative spray program that Pennsylvania counties had the option to participate in was not to control the population with wholesale spraying of forest land, but to limit the nuisance factor around homes. This spray program would only spray a 500 foot buffer strip around homes located in woodlands and then only if a field survey of egg masses indicated the possibility of large populations and if the surrounding woods are primarily of favored food species such as oak.

These surveys are conducted in the late fall and winter. You also need to remember that we would still have the problem of the caterpillars blowing around because most sprays are not effective until the caterpillars land and begin to feed.

Gypsy moth is an insect that we are going to have to learn to live with. The population buildups are periodic and we are in a peak year of such a buildup.

Hopefully, the insects will use up their food supply and this will place them under stress. When stressed they become susceptible to a naturally occurring fungus and virus which infect the caterpillar and will kill them in large numbers. This happened in many areas of Pennsylvania last year and the gypsy moth populations in these areas are relatively small.

In many instances, large-scale spray protects can lengthen the peak to cover a longer time period. Wholesale spraying can lessen damage to trees by keeping populations at a lower level.

What should a woodland owner do to protect his or her woods? The best thing to do is to properly manage and care for the woodlot. Proper management will remove those trees that are sick or stressed and these are the trees that will most likely die from gypsy moth defoliation.

This will also keep other trees healthy and healthy trees are more likely to survive defoliation. You should not "panic-cut" your trees from fear that gypsy moth might kill them. You should obtain the services of a professional forester to help you manage your woodlot and pest management is an important part of a forest management plan.

Spraying should be considered if you have a very valuable oak woods that is close to harvesting. The decision to spray needs to be made long before the gypsy moth eggs hatch. In the spring, most spray contracts have been made and the spray contractors have more than enough work to do. Homeowners have more options available to them in protecting their trees. Again, keeping your yard trees healthy will reduce the chances of the tree dying after

A homeowner can reduce damage by tying a piece of burlap, about 10-12 inches wide around the stem so that half of the burlap forms a flap over the other piece of burlap. During the day, the caterpillars will come down the tree and will hide underneath this flap. In the late afternoon you need to lift the flap and collect the gypsy moth caterpillars and place them in a can of kerosene or chlorine bleach (use gloves).

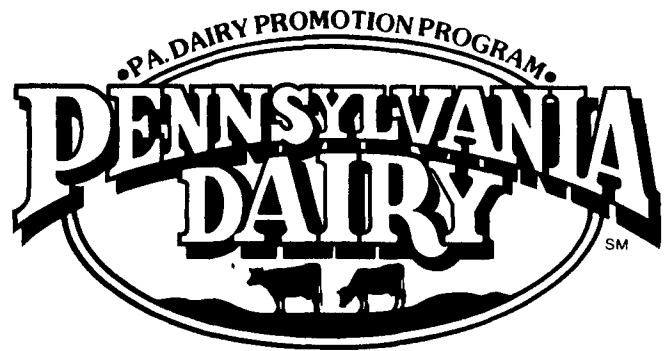

Homeowners can spray with a number of pesticides that can effectively limit damage from gypsy moth. A number of pesticides have been registered for use to control gypsy moth. The safest is called Bt (sold under the names of Dipel or Thuricide). This is a bacteria that must be ingested by the caterpillar to be effective. It should be applied beginning now and over the next two weeks to be effective.

After this time period it loses a large amount of its potency. When applied correctly it can kill from 50 to 90 percent of the caterpillars. Homeowners should apply this pesticide twice about 7 to 10 days apart. Bt is a safe pesticide as it will not harm pets or other none target insects such as honeybees.

Other chemicals that are registered include Carbaryl (sold locally as Sevin), Acephate (sold locally as Orthene), and a number of other chemicals. These chemicals must be applied carefully as they can be harmful to non-target insects, birds, and fish. These chemicals are more effective than Bt but are more dangerous.

You should avoid spraying these chemicals on fruit trees when in bloom, as they are just as deadly to honeybees as they are to gypsy moth caterpillars. As with Bt, these pesticides are more effective against smaller, younger caterpillars than they are against large caterpillars. If you decide to spray, you should always follow the instructions on the label exactly.

Case Offers Low-Rate Financing

RACINE, Wis. — For a limited time, J I Case is offering low-rate financing through Case Credit on the purchase of new Case International 35+ horsepower agricultural tractors and Axial-Flow combines.

The special program of 5.9 percent financing on these products for up to 60 months applies to equipment sold between April 1 and June 30, 1991, according to Phil Cote, vice president of marketing and planning for Case Credit.

"At this time, no other farm equipment supplier offers 5.9 percent financing over a 5-year period," Cote said. "We're pleased to provide these financing options as an incentive for needed equipment replacement after a period of uncertainty in world affairs.

"Although grain prices could be higher, they are trending upward. We believe North American farmers and ranchers are in sound financial shape and require only a bit of encouragement to start investing in reliable, high-performance tractors and combines," he said.

The 5.9 percent offer is available for 48 months on tractors from 35 to 120 hp and for 60 months on all MAGNUM™ models (130 to 195 PTO hp), 9100 and 9200 Series four-wheel drives (200 to 375 engine hp), and all self-propelled and pull-type Axial-Flow combines. Case International dealers can provide details on special money-saving offers on other Case International equipment.

"The industry can expect renewed buying activity this summer simply because the time is right for many producers to purchase new equipment," Cote said. "The average age of farm equipment currently in use is the highest it's been in years and good values in used equipment are getting harder to come by."

Northrup King Honors Salesman

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Steve Shipman, Mill Hall, Pa. was recently named a member of Northrup King Co.'s 1990 Honorary Sales Council (HSC).

The company's sales managers and agronomists who achieve or contribute to significant seed sales increases are appointed to the annual council.

all, 28 sales managers and agronomists throughout the U.S. were honored at HSC.

"Shipman achieved his success by delivering a high level of service to growers and dealers in the district," said Don Jacoby, vice president of sales for the field crops division, in awarding the special plaque and member's ring. "He helped farmers maximize profits by matching Northrup King products to their particular cropping needs."

Gehl Co. Unveils New Look

WEST BEND, Wis. — Gehl Company announced recently that it is undertaking an identity transformation as part of its strategy to become a strong global competitor.

The transformation will include a new Gehl logo, a simplification of the company's divisional designations, a restyling of the company's agricultural and construction equipment, and employee involvement.

In the first phase of the transformation, the new Gehl logo and division names were introduced to shareholders at the company's annual meeting held in West Bend, and to employees throughout the country in special communication materials.

"Gehl Company has a proud heritage of good people, integrity in its operations and a reputation for quality products," said Bernard L. Nielsen, president and chief executive officer. "That's why we retained the Gehl name as the focal point of our new identity program and simplified the names of our divisions to incorporate Gehl. We will refer to our two businesses as 'Gehl Agriculture' and 'Gehl Construction.'"

Citing Gehl Company's growth and diversification over the past few years, Nielsen noted, "We also need to convey Gehl Company's position as a leading manufacturer in a number of specialized markets and our growing international presence. Our new Gehl logo was designed to project a global feeling as well as a sense of momentum, agility and technological advancement," he said.

"Our commitment to become a World Class competitor must be reflected in our image as a company — how we look, how we act, the appearance and quality of our products. The new Gehl look is the major visualization of that World Class philosophy."

Still in its infancy, the Gehl identity program will, in time, have impact on the styling and graphics of all Gehl products, on the design and content of all Gehl communication materials, and on the appearance and function of company facilities.

Gehl Company is being assisted with its identity transformation by Bob Reddy and Ken Larsen of Reddy & Associates, Grafton, Wisconsin.

2-Stage Controller Varies Cycles

WATERFORD, Wisc. — Sound familiar? You're in the fields. It's 11:30 a.m. and it's hot! The sows back in the farrowing unit need more frequent and longer drip cooling but you can't stop what you're doing.

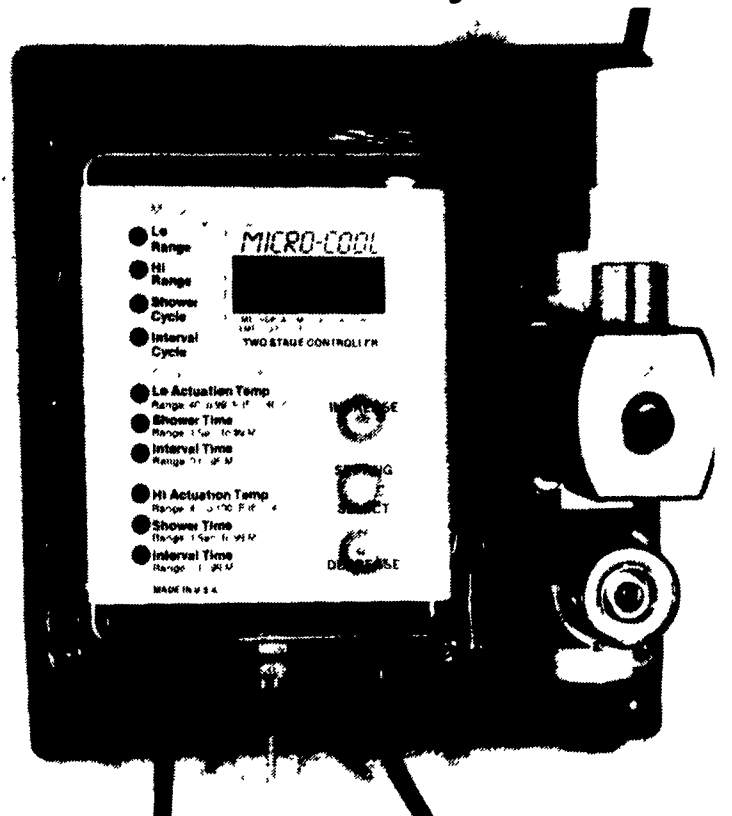

Now with the New Edstrom Two-Stage Micro-Cool Controller, you don't have to leave your chores to reset the cycle time.

Edstrom Industries are the originators of the intermittent drip/spray cooling systems. They have continually enhanced the original product based on user suggestions. Again, through close contact with pork producers, the Micro-Cool system has been redesigned to reflect the needs of the consumer.

The two-stage controller can be programmed to two different sets of cycles that are triggered by the temperature in the building. For instance, when it's 75 degrees F, the sows may need a 3-minute shower every 15 minutes. When it's 85 degrees F, they may need to get a 5-minute shower every 10 minutes. The user sets the cycle times and activation temperature and then it's all controlled automatically.

The Micro-Cool drip/spray system comes as a complete kit with everything needed to install a professional system in about three hours. The new two-stage controller can also be purchased separately to upgrade existing systems and is compatible with all other systems on the market.

The Micro-Cool two-stage controller comes with a full warranty for two years and emergency replacement of the controller. If on a hot day there should be a problem, just a toll-free call will get immediate action. Contact Edstrom Industries, 819 Bakke Avenue, Waterford, WI 53185, (800) 558-5913.

Edstrom Industries two-stage controller can be programmed to two different sets of cycles that are triggered by the temperature in the building.

601 Overly Grove Road, New Holland, PA 17557

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Millcreek Manufacturing has introduced two new top dressers design and built for use by golf courses and country clubs.

The rugged but affordable models 50TD and 75TD allow you to take advantage of the growing trend toward spreading grass clippings in the rough as well as having an economical spreader for spreading top dressing, compost, dry flowable fertilizer, and de-icing materials.

The model 50TD has a heaped capacity of 40 cubic feet and can be pulled by an 18 HP compact tractor.

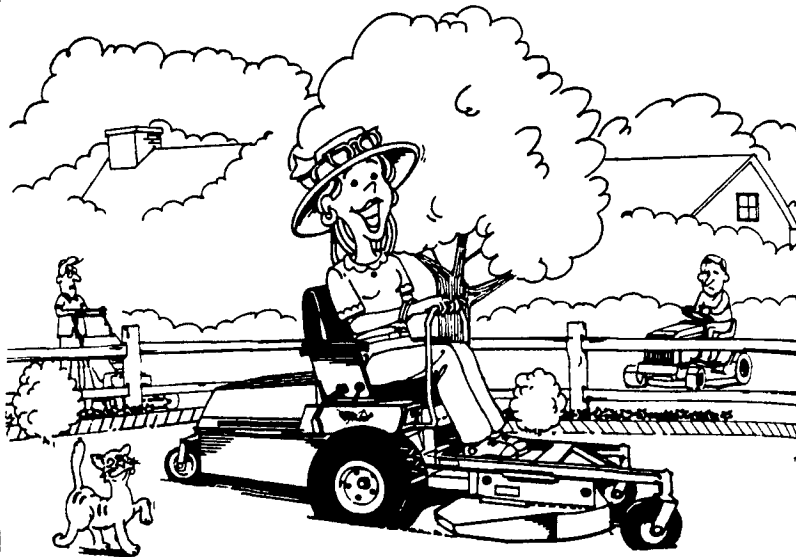

The model 75TD has a heaped capacity of 58 cubic feet and operates with a 20 HP tractor.

Both have a rugged steel body with 12-gauge tapered sides for easy unloading. The floor is reinforced fiberglass for long life. Heavy-duty flat steel chain is used for the apron chain, with metal apron slats ideally placed at two-inch intervals for even, trouble-free spreading. A 22-inch diameter undershot poly brush delivers an even spread pattern to a width of 3 to 8 feet.

Cash Team Wins Franklin Co. Envirothon

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — On May 8, teams of high school students from Fulton and Franklin counties met at Cowans Gap State Park to test their environmental knowledge and skills. The event was the second annual Fulton/Franklin County Envirothon.

The Envirothon, sponsored by the Fulton and Franklin County Conservation Districts, is an annual competition designed to test the students' knowledge of the environment. It is also designed to increase their awareness of the interrelationships that exist in the world, and the effects of human actions on those interrelationships.

Teams consisting of five high school students were provided with study materials early in the spring. During the Envirothon, they are tested on five environmental subject areas: aquatics, forestry, soils, wildlife, and current environmental issues. Local representatives provided technical assistance and administered the exam stations.

Marvin Hammond, DER Bureau of Water, and William Fink, Fulton Conservation District, administered the aquatics exam; Tom Wieland, Glatfelter Pulpwood Company and Ray Miller, DER Bureau of Forestry, the forestry exam; Rob Knight, Soil Conservation Service and Dave Stoner, Franklin Conservation District the soils exam; Frank Clark, Pennsylvania Game Commission and Ernest Turner, Franklin Conservation District the wildlife exam; and Chuck Kubasik, DER Bureau Soil and Water Conservation and Melinda Kokus, Bedford/Fulton/Huntingdon Solid Waste Authority administered the current issue station energy sustainability. Greg Sassaman, park superintendent, conducted an educational station at the park visitors center.

The Chambersburg Area Senior High School Team (CASHS Woodsmen), a team comprised of George Knisely's vocational-agricultural students, took top honors at the event. Team members Richard Martin, Peter Hawbaker, Steve Mayer, Pete Nicklas, and Mary Deavon outscored the second place team of environmental science students from James Buchanan High School of James Meyers, David Nagy, Jason Smith, Darren Statler, and Dave Hess. Finished third from Franklin County was the Chambersburg Senior High School's ninth grade vo-ag team of Rachel Hawbaker, Daryl Hull, Scott Everts, Andy Myers, and Alan Rice.

George Knisely served as advisor for the Chambersburg teams and Steve Harry advised the James Buchanan team.

Also participating from Franklin County was the vo-ag team from James Buchanan High School with advisor Ron Brant and an environmental science team from Greencastle-Antrim High School with advisor Lana Crouse.

The Chambersburg Area Senior High School CASHS Woodsmen team will now represent Franklin County at the eighth annual Pennsylvania State Envirothon at Bald Eagle State Park in Centre County on June 15. If the Franklin County Team wins the state Envirothon, they will compete against Envirothon teams from other states at the Fourth Annual National Envirothon to be held in Maine in August.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best -
In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)

- 1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed. The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas. This is resurfacing!!!
- 2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort. This film will let excess moisture breathe through it. Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years. Southern exposures usually wear faster.

Using Artificial Intelligence For Gamebird Industry

William B. Roush
Herbert C. Jordan
Poultry Science Dept.
Penn State

The ability to make sound decisions is essential to the success of any business enterprise.

At one time, decisions producing a 1 percent improvement on investment did not mean very much. For example, a 1 percent improvement on a $1,000 investment is only $10 dollars.

However, gamebird enterprises can involve investments of hundreds of thousands or even millions of dollars. Improvements of 1 percent on $100,000 and $1,000,000 are $1000 and $10,000, respectively. These are considerable amounts of capital that a manager would not want to lose. Evaluation of decision variables that can affect improvements on investment need to be investigated.

One area under investigation is the effect of imprecise inputs on decisions. The gamebird industry has many imprecise inputs, including the biological response of the animal, as essential components of the decision making process. This biological distinction sets the animal industry apart from other manufacturing businesses such as those that make cars and lightbulbs.

The research program in poultry management at Penn State has been working on methods to incorporate the latest decision-making tools with the biological responses to make effective decisions for the poultry industry. The following is a synopsis of decision making research being conducted at Penn State.

Population Density

It is generally agreed that excess crowding of birds can affect economic returns in a negative manner. Making specific population density recommendations for a forthcoming production cycle is difficult because of the variety of space situations available to the poultry manager.

A decision analysis approach to the population density was made using a computerized spreadsheet program. A decision matrix was developed based on a potential profit equation for several economic situations.

Equation variables included the biological response of the animals associated with three population densities, product and feed prices, and bird costs. Four decision criteria were evaluated. These criteria included the following: 1) the best of worst situations (maximin), a conservative decision; 2) the best of best situations (maximax), an optimistic decision; 3) an average response, which includes each response in the decision; and 4) an average response based on the probability of changes in feed and product prices (risk is taken into account). This last decision approach would probably be the best to use as most gamebird managers are trying to avoid risk.

These criteria should be considered indexes for decision-making. They do not represent actual expected losses or profits.

While there are differences in the ability of poultry managers to accept uncertainty and risk, decision analysis is a practical approach to aid managers in making profitable decisions under their own management situations.

Another goal involved in the population density question involves the biological decision of when stress begins. Because this is a question involving an imprecise concept of stress, a new mathematical technique (from the area of artificial intelligence) involving fuzzy decision analysis is being explored.

The fuzzy approach has been proposed to evaluate imprecise concepts such as stress. There are situations in which the boundaries are not distinct. For example, in a color spectrum, there is a continuum between the colors. The point at which red becomes yellow or yellow becomes red is, in fact, fuzzy. Stress is a concept that, like color, may be approachable using fuzzy logic.

Feed Formulation Techniques

A common feed formulation problem is the variability of nutrients in ingredients coming from different sources. Linear programming models require that the variability of ingredients be disregarded, or estimated and linearized. Non-linear programming, however, can provide least cost rations that meets each nutritional requirement at confidence levels specified by the user.

With non-linear programming, the variability of nutrients in feed ingredients is included in the formulation procedure. A study was conducted to evaluate linear programming with a margin of safety and non-linear programming. Both linear programming with a margin of safety and non-linear programming were able to meet the nutritional requirements at confidence levels ranging from $P > .5$ to $P > .99$; however, non-linear programming consistently produced lower cost rations than linear programming with a margin of safety.

Growth Rate

Theoretical work is being conducted on the non-linear dynamics of growth. Interestingly, an equation (the logistic equation) which is associated with non-predictable or chaotic responses is very similar to an equation that is suggested for growth responses. Preliminary investigations show that the logistic equation may model some of the effects involving variability of induced growth in chicks.

In summary, the complex questions facing the gamebird industry will require new and innovative approaches. There are numerous questions to be asked. For example, what are the controllable and uncontrollable variables affecting missed birds? What are the effects of time of release, sex and age of the bird, weather, location of home pen, etc., on successful hunts? What is the effect of shooting birds from a left swing versus a right swing of the shotgun? What is the percent of harvested birds per dog? Promising developments for solving such questions involving complex multivariables are coming from such unlikely areas as mathematics, operations research and artificial intelligence.

Penn Jersey Crop Field Day In Sept.

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — The 1991 Penn Jersey Crop Management Field Day will be held Saturday, Sept. 7, at the Snyder Research and Extension Farm in Hunterdon County, N.J.

The field days are an annual event sponsored by Rutgers and Penn State Extension, Pennsylvania and New Jersey Ag Businesses, ASCS, SCS, and Pennsylvania and New Jersey conservation districts.

The theme for the 1991 Field Day is integrated crop management.

The Field Day will include crop cultural demonstrations, variety tests, conservation practices, nutrient management, integrated crop management, scouting, a trade show and more.

The Snyder Research Farm was bequeathed to Rutgers University by Melba C. Snyder in 1988. It is currently being developed as the Northeast's newest regional research field station. Its purpose will be to generate and disseminate basic and applied research information on the production of a wide variety of food and fiber crops.

At 390 acres, the farm is one of the largest single tracts of prime farmland in Hunterdon County, N.J.

For more information, contact Greg Solt, county agent, RR 4, Greystone Building, Nazareth, PA 18064, (215) 746-1970.

NAL Has Tractor Rollover Info

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Information which may help prevent deaths from tractor rollovers now is available through the Rural Information Center (RIC) of the National Agricultural Library (NAL). RIC, and the Rural Information Center Health Service, can be reached by dialing, toll-free, (800) 633-7701.

The information is contained in the new publication, "Rollover Protection; A Guide to Tractor Roll Bars and Other Rollover Protective Structures." The guide was prepared and recently released to agricultural extension offices and cooperatives by the Wisconsin Rural Health Research Center, a program of the Marshfield (Wisconsin) Medical Research Foundation.

The Office of Rural Health Policy, part of the Health Resources and Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), provided funding to assist in producing the 65-page directory.

Listed in the publication are tractor models which have protective structures and information on suppliers, price and other features.

NAL's Rural Information Center has copies of the directory for use on-site and can provide information on the locations of other copies.

In announcing the release of the publication, HHS officials said that although most new tractors are sold with factory installed rollover protective structures, only about 30 percent of the 4.5 million tractors used on U.S. farms are equipped with these devices.

HHS officials said that a lack of "a single, comprehensive source of information on the availability of rollover protection structures has been a major obstacle to owners seeking to equip their tractors with this safeguard." The officials said that publication and distribution of the rollover protection guide should help reduce the number of deaths and injuries on U.S. farms.

An estimated 300-400 persons are killed and 600-700 suffer disabling injuries each year in tractor rollover accidents, according to the Wisconsin Rural Health Research Center. The center estimates that about 15 percent of the victims are children and that 30-40 percent of overturns of tractors without rollover protection result in death. In a study of 50 overturns of tractors with rollover protection, there was only one fatality, a 2 percent rate, the center said.

In releasing the guide, the center said a rollover protection structure provides a secure area for the operator in the event of a rollover. Since the operator is protected only by remaining in the secure area, a seat belt must be used when operating a tractor with rollover protection.

The Rural Information Center is one of a dozen information centers established by NAL to gather information and provide services on issues of critical importance to the agricultural community. In addition to rural development, subjects covered include agricultural trade and marketing, alternative farming systems, animal welfare, aquaculture, biotechnology, food and nutrition, plant genome technology transfer, water quality youth development, and others.

Horse Show Benefits Hospital

ARENDTSTVILLE (Adams Co.) — The 39th annual Gettysburg Riding Club Horse Show will be held Sunday, June 2 starting at 8:30 a.m. at the South Mountain Fairgrounds. The show benefits the Gettysburg Hospital.

This year the show will again be using three rings. On the inside ring, classes will be held for English and Western type horses in halter and grooming and showmanship as well as flat classes. Western classes will also be held for youth and adults and also some 4-H classes for members of 4-H Horse Clubs. Pleasure classes will be judged on the horses way of going and equitation classes will be judged on how well the rider rides his or her mount.

The two outside courses will consist of jumping classes for the seasoned rider as well as the beginning rider. English horse under saddle classes will also be held on the outside courses.

Beginning riders will be able to choose from leadline pony or have a choice of jumping up to 18-inch fences. Novice jumping classes are also available for the child or the adult rider. A variety of other classes will be low hunter, pleasure horse over fences, green hunter, small ponies, medium ponies, large ponies and a variety of other classes. A new division this year will be for adult and children amateur hunters under saddle and over fences. There should be a class for everyone.

A highlight of the show is the competition to find out who will be named Adams County Pleasure horse for 1991. This class is only for residents who live in Adams County. To be able to keep the Challenge Trophy, it must be won three times in a row. 1990's trophy was won by Alesia Alering of Fairfield, Pa.

The show is a member of the Maryland-Pennsylvania and the Carroll County English Horse Show Association circuits. The English judges will be Jerre Frankhouser, Lititz, Pa. and Robin Townsend, Keymar, Md. The Western judge will be Helen Spedden of Ellicott City, Md.

For more information on the show, contact Show Chairman Carol Kessel, (717) 334-4896 or Judy Sterner (717) 334-3043.

Prowl Available In Nonflammable Formulation

WAYNE, N.J. — PROWL® herbicide from American Cyanamid is now available to Cyanamid AgriCenter™ dealers and growers in a new non-flammable formulation.

PROWL 3.3EC (emulsifiable concentrate) is a high flash-point formulation containing 3.3 lbs. per gallon of active ingredient, which is slightly less concentrated than the 4. gallons found in PROWL 4E.

PROWL 3.3EC will offer advantages to Cyanamid AgriCenter™ dealers who custom apply and store PROWL in bulk. The new formulation does not have to be handled and stored as flammable material.

To ensure proper weed control when using the new bulk 3.3 EC formulation of PROWL, growers and applicators will need to increase the usage rate per acre compared to PROWL 4E. Consult the PROWL 3.3 EC label for the correct use rates.

The 3.3 EC bulk formulation is currently being test marketed in New York, Pennsylvania, and Minnesota.

PLY-FOIL is a
of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective
gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.

PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity, do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

Some dogs
at nothing.

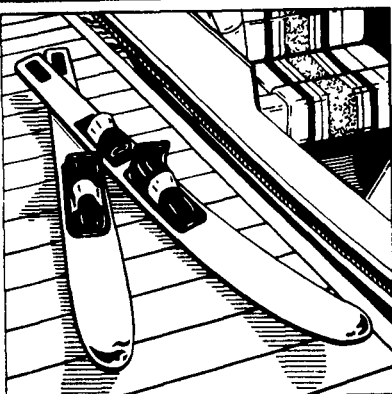

If you ever thought about giving your dog the run of the yard, but couldn't see putting up a big fence to do it, a DogWatch™ Hidden Fence System could be what you're looking for.

DogWatch™ keeps an "eye" on your dog by transmitting a harmless radio signal through a hidden boundary wire. A special receiver collar then warns the dog when it gets too close.

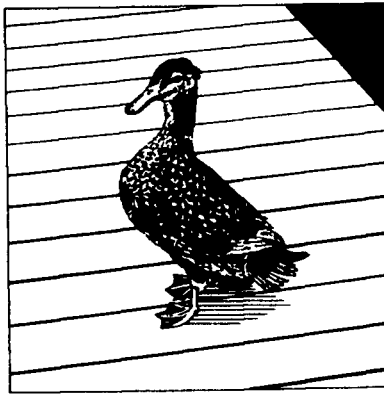

Find out more about DogWatch™ Hidden Fence Systems by calling us today.

Introducing
The Wrangler 2000-OH
Inexpensive. Not cheap.

The Wrangler Model 2000 OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000 OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top value gooseneck.

Unlike other budget trailers on the market the Wrangler 2000 OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features standard on the new Wrangler 2000 OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 11', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Special introductory pricing.
All this and more for under $9,000.*

* Introductory price of a standard 20' model as illustrated. Freight, taxes, title, dealer prep not included.

MAGNUM means more than ever.

There's no doubt about it. MAGNUM™ tractors have set new standards for durability, reliability and performance. It's the reason more and more farmers are choosing them. But that's not all.

Every model is backed by the industry's best warranty* — five years or 5,000 hours. So you can buy a MAGNUM tractor knowing that your investment is protected. And at trade-in time, the warranty is completely transferrable, which is just one reason resale values are higher than ever.

But the real test is in the field. So why not call us today to set up an on-farm demonstration. Once you make a few passes, you'll understand why MAGNUM means more than ever.

* Excluding tires, which are covered by their own manufacturers' warranties. A $200 deductible applies to each repair after the first year

Maryland DHIA

The April 1991 DHI information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by: herd name, county, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5% Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 60 lbs. or more of 3.5% FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

Variable chamber round baler

Depending on the type of baling you do, a variable chamber round baler may be your best buy. Features include Gehl "airdraulics," a system that gives you total density control (TDC®). It allows you to control the size of the bale core and the density of the outer wrap to build a bale that's just right for your crop. You get high quality bales that look good and store well. And you can operate your baler with lower horsepower tractors. Two models make bales up to 5 ft. or 6 ft. in diameter. Gehl's optional dual twine Auto-Electric Wrap System ensures a uniform twine wrap automatically, bale after bale.

CASE INTERNATIONAL 8340

This 9 ft. 3 in. (2.82m) deluxe model includes all the operating and convenience features you need for fast, efficient crop processing.

You don't have to worry about plugged conditioner rolls in heavy crop conditions either. Should crop slugs feed into the rolls, a unique eccentric linkage on the roll pressure spring assembly permits the rolls to temporarily separate allowing the slug to pass through. The rolls then automatically return to the preset roll pressure.

Outstanding vertical and radial flotation ensure the header hugs the ground through every contour. Yet adjustment has never been easier. Each wheel assembly on the 8340 is equipped with flotation springs that are easily accessible for initial adjustment. Further adjustment can be achieved when cutting height changes are made at the skid shoes by simply inserting stop collars on the master and slave cylinders.

The little touches that you expect on a deluxe machine haven't been left out, either. Like an easy access compartment built into the frame so you can keep an extra sickle on hand at all times. And a tool box for spare parts, guards, sickle sections and tools.

Never has such a small investment brought so much productivity and convenience.

For pure performance in a 9-foot (2.74 m) mower conditioner, you can't beat the 8340 from Case IH. This model combines the productivity of a 9 foot 3 inch (2.82 m) cutting width with the deluxe features you'd expect to find only on larger machines.

For starters, the heavy, box-beam tongue is hydraulically positioned from the tractor seat so you can switch from field to road position in seconds. Plus, it lets you steer around field obstacles without driving over adjacent windrows.

Plenty of crop gathering capacity begins with a low-maintenance sickle that runs at a fast smooth 1700 strokes-per-minute. Bolt-on sickle sections are even standard equipment for quick, convenient section replacement.

A five-bat, cam-actuated reel is another standard feature that provides maximum capacity. In addition to ensuring uniform crop feeding to the conditioner rolls, the additional fifth bat allows the 42-inch (1.07 m) reel to take smaller bites of heavy, high-density crops. If necessary, you can still adjust reel speed from 54 to 78 RPM for varying crop types.

AXIAL FLOW...One Step Ahead For

...OPERATION
...VALUE
...COMFORT
...HEADERS

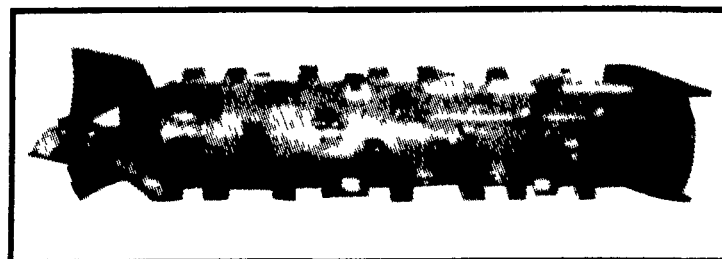

THE AXIAL FLOW SYSTEM PUTS CLEAN, QUALITY GRAIN IN THE TANK...

The Case International XPE Axial-flow Combines feature a single, in-line mounted rotor that gets multiple chances to gently thresh your crop, and then separate it from straw, stalks, pods, and trash. So more of the crop gets harvested, with less damage.

Threshing and separating in a conventional combine takes as many as 16 moving parts. But threshing and separating in the Axial-Flow Combine utilizes just one moving part-- the rotor. It simply does a better job.

Although the Axial-Flow combine is built around the extraordinary performance strengths of the rotor, from header to straw spreader there are no weak links.

Hoober's professional combine servicemen have 14 years experience setting axial flow combines in a large variety of crops in most all types of field and weather conditions. When it comes to the KNOW-HOW of making the Axial-Flow combine perform, Hoober men know how.

THE ROTOR GENTLY THRESHES SEPARATES AND FEEDS THE CROP FOR EXTRAORDINARY RESULTS IN THE TANK.

YOU DON'T NEED TO BE A MATHEMATICIAN

TO LEARN THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES. YOU ONLY NEED TO TRY ONE.

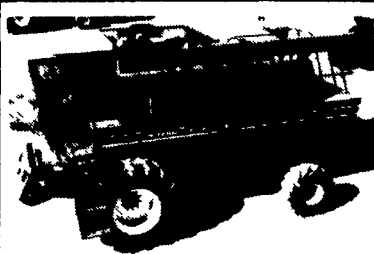

1st LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

TWELVE (12) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO ($\neq$) WORN OUT

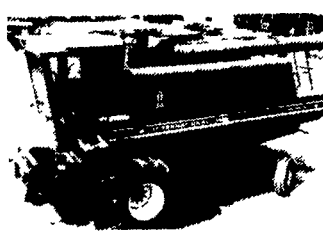

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be re-conditioned by Hooper's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

COMBINES

IH 1460 Diesel, Hydro, 18 4x16 1 & 30 5x32 Tires, A/C & Heat, Auto Header Control, Grain Loss Monitor (U4744)

IH 1460 Combine, Diesel, Hydro, 28Lx26 & 11 00x16 Tires, Cab w/AC (U5745)

IH 1440 Diesel, Hydro, 11 00x16 & 28Lx26 Tires, AC & Heat, Auto Header Control (U4817)

COMBINES

3,500 HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE

3,500 hours on a conventional combine usually means too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 3,500 hours reconditioned by Hooper's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hooper's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

 UNIT AVAILABLE!

Wasting chemical and yield on hills and headlands is a thing of the past with Vicon's new flow proportioning and boom compensation system. Application rate remains constant even when ground speed varies or individual boom sections are shut off. That means better coverage with lower input costs.

It is available on all Vicon trailer sprayers with tank capacities up to 785 U.S. gal. (3000 litres) and automatic stabilizing booms from 28' to 62'. There's also a choice of hydraulic or manual folding booms and a range of accessories that make crop spraying less of a chore.

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish. The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF POURED CONCRETE

WE WANT TO HELP!!!!!!

Contact us soon to discuss "special discounts" for early orders on silos for fall. During the "lull" between our busy spring season for wilted hay storage and the even busier fall season - we are anxious to help during this period when milk prices and cattle prices are down.

"NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR BEST DEAL ON A POURED CONCRETE SILO FOR 1991."

Don't wait too long because a good hay crop (mostly in the silo or barn) and good rains signal a busy fall silo-building season.

Since 1908, SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. has been providing the Silo Structures now in demand by more and more farmers concerned about "silage quality." "Nothing keeps feed better than our poured concrete silos."

- Large Tri-Suspension frame provides proper balance for even silage cutting.
- 2"x2"x1/4" angled steel frame has greater strength
- Forged 1/2" steel eye-bolts allow for individual cable adjustment and proper balance.
- Three, strong, 1/2" aircraft-type cables provide high-tensile strength and dependability.

- Auger knives are sharpened, hardened and curved. Result: augers and chipper wheels maintain proper wall pressure for better cleaning and more aggressive cutting and digging of hard-packed or frozen silage.
